Coolidge Speech Gives Promise Of Huge Tax Slash

Tax Cut Of $300,000,000 Almost Assured At Next Session Of Congress

TREASURY SURPLUS IS $599,000,000

Public Debt Has Been Reduced One Billion Dollars In Seven Years

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—A tax cut of at least $300,000,000 at the next session of congress was assured today.

This was the belief of congressional leaders following President Coolidge's speech to the government's business organization last night in which he announced the treasury would have an unprecedented surplus of $599,000,000 at the close of the present fiscal year on June 30.

Senior High School Band And Orchestra Enjoy Fine Banquet

Highland U. P. Church Scene Of Dinner And Program On Friday Evening

Members of the Senior High school band and orchestra were feasted in the Highland U. P. church Friday evening. The banquet was followed by an excellent program of speeches and music.

Members of the alumni had a large part to do with the entertainment of the musical bodies. Special guests included members of the school board and their wives.

Dr. C. C. Green was introduced as the toastmaster of the evening by La Verne Irvine, director of music in the schools of the city.

Speakers of the evening were: Walter McGrath, president of the Senior orchestra, David Young, president of the band, C. H. Young, a member of the school board, F. L. Orth, principal of the Senior High school, and Paul Arrow, a member of the alumni.

Special music was furnished by a trio made up of the following alumni members, Jack Houston, Sherwood Brown, and Clyde Shoemaker. They were under the direction of Isabel Zehner.

A banjo duet was enjoyed when rendered by Jack Houston and Clyde Shoemaker.

A special orchestra made up of members of the alumni from the musical talent of the last seven graduating classes furnished music during the banquet under the direction of Paul Arrow, president of the class of '25.

Jack Houston was leader of the pep songs during the evening.

The committee in charge of the banquet was made up of the following: Walter McGrath, chairman, Mrs. J. G. Nothdurft, Miss Ruth MacEwen, Miss Isabel Zehner and David Young. This body had cleverly arranged souvenirs made up of little post-cards with pictures of the band and orchestra.

Crowd Gathers Early At National Capital To Greet Lindbergh

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Aflutter with flags and aquiver with excitement, the usually blase national capital early today awaited only the arrival of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh at noon to heap upon him plaudits and honors such as have never been given any man in the history of the republic.

Far down the placid stretches of the lower Potomac steamed this morning scores of vessels, grim little destroyers and gaily bedecked pleasure craft; overhead droned the motors of half a hundred airplanes —all intent upon the common task of demonstrating to this tousle-headed youth that America appreciates the spanning of the Atlantic fully as much as did the idolatrous crowds in London and Paris.

At dawn this morning there were people sleeping in the greensward around the towering monument that a grateful nation erected to Washington, the founder. It is within the shadow of this marble shaft that President Coolidge will receive the youth this afternoon and pin upon his breast the distinguished flying cross while 200,000 people cheer themselves hoarse.

Before dawn this morning sleepy tourists were parking their automobiles on Hains' Point, the narrow peninsula that the cruiser Memphis must pass on its way to the navy yard to dock. Here was promised a panoramic view of the spectacle of the cruiser bearing the young flyer to his hour of homecoming, and it was a mecca for thousands.

Nothing like it has ever been seen before in the national capital. No victorious general home from the wars, no President, however

ABOARD U. S. S. MEMPHIS, June 11.—"Oh!"

This one word of surprise was the only comment Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh had to make today as he finally came to a realization of the tremendous reception that is being accorded him on his return home.

Colonnel Lindbergh was just a boy, speechless with amazement, as he saw thousands lining the Virginia and Maryland shores as the WASHINGTON, June 11.—Amid the roar of circling airplanes overhead and the shrieking sirens of scores of river craft, the long, grey snout of the U. S. cruiser Memphis poked her way into the navy yard dock at 11:32 a. m., bearing Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh home from his glorious trans-Atlantic adventure.

The youth who departed virtually unknown a month ago, fortified with four ham sandwiches and unlimited courage, returned to find the national capital at his feet in such an outburst of hero worship as has never before been witnessed.

Booms Salute

The Presidential yacht Mayflower boomed out a 21-gun salute as the cruiser crept slowly up the channel and a few minutes later there rolled back over the waters the return salute of the Memphis guns. The firing enveloped the Memphis in a haze of smoke. Starboard on the bridge of the Memphis a searchlight signaled with the Mayflower.

Gathered there on the dock to greet him were the elite of Washington officialdom—cabinet officers, a dozen members of the United States Senate, a dozen members of the House—ranking figures in the army and navy, old flying "buddies", boyhood friends—and more important than all of them in the eyes of the slim, smiling youth —his mother.

Every department of the government was represented in the greeting. Only President Coolidge himself was missing—and he was merely waiting for the public to pay its homage to the youth down the mile-long parade of Pennsylvania avenue before receiving him at the monument grounds with a welcoming speech and the highest decorative honors within his gift.

Unprecedented Honors

The lanky youth was almost overcome by the splendor of his homecoming—and well he might be, for not in the history of the republic have such honors been conferred upon one of its sons. A private battleship brought him home from his victorious and peaceful invasion of Europe, a cordon of destroyers met him off the Virginia Capes, and a hundred airplanes roared a welcome through their exhausts which was in his own language.

And down historic Pennsylvania avenue, which has echoed to the tramp of Grant's men, the clatter of numerous inaugurals, and the majestic passing of the unknown soldier—down this most famous of all American thoroughfares were countless thousands, from curb to building line, applauding his feat and his safe return.

"I wonder if I really deserve all this?" he asked rather wonderingly on the bridge of the Memphis when the destroyers first came out, and the same question appeared to occupy him as the passage up the muddy Potomac unfolded ever-increasing honors—salutes reserved for presidents and potentates, daro-

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE PRESENTS AWARD TO COLONEL LINDBERGH; AND PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO YOUNG AIR HERO

(International News Service)

MONUMENT GROUNDS, WASHINGTON, June 11.—Ringing adjectives of praise and adoration accompanied President Coolidge's presentation of the Distinguished Flying Cross to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today.

"Our ambassador without portfolio," the President termed the blonde boy who beat the Atlantic —a boy "representing the best traditions of this country, of a stock known for its deeds of adventure and exploration."

Particularly did Mr. Coolidge dwell on the forcefulness and stability of character of the New York-to-Paris flyer, Quoting from Lindbergh's record in the files of the Militia Bureau, the executive found him to be "intelligent," "industrious," "energetic," dependable," "purposeful," "alert," "quick of reaction," "serious," "deliberate," "stable, "efficient," "frank," "modest," "congenial," "a man of good moral habits and regular in all his business transactions."

"One of the officers expressed his belief that the young man 'would successfully complete everything he undertakes'," said the President. "This reads like a prophecy."

Text of Address

The text of the President's speech follows:

"It was in America that the modern art of flying of heavier-than-air machines was first developed. As the experiments became successful, the airplane was devoted to practical purposes. It has been adapted to commerce in the transportation of passengers and mail and used for national defense by our land and sea forces. Beginning with a limited flying radius, its length has been gradually extended.

"We have made many flying records. Our army fliers have circumnavigated the globe. One of our navy men started from California and flew far enough to have reached Hawaii, but being off his

Flags Are Out To Honor Lindbergh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 11.—Nearly all mayors of cities and towns in western Pennsylvania will follow the lead of Pittsburgh today and urge their citizens to display flags in honor of the homecoming of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the trans-Atlantic flier, according to reports received here.

Mayor Charles H. Kline in a proclamation declared because Lindbergh is hailed as "one of the greatest heroes of the day," he believed that Pittsburghers should honor him by displaying the "stars and stripes from every flagstaff in the city."

52,000 Messages For Lindbergh

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Ten messenger boys staggered into the White House executive offices at 10 a. m. today, bearing the nation's telegraphic greetings to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

There were 52,000 messages in the load.

One of them was 520 feet in length and bore 17,000 signatures. It came from Minneapolis, and the signers were Minnesota well wishers of the flyer. His father was formerly a congressman from Minnesota.

France And U. S. May Discuss New War Treaty

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—France and the United States are to engage in diplomatic discussions aimed at the possible negotiation of a treaty to "outlaw" war between the two countries, it was announced at the state department today.

Premier Briand first proposed such a treaty on a statement to the French press early in April. Lately he asked Ambassador Herrick to ascertain whether the United States care to discuss it diplomatically with France. Herrick was advised today to inform Briand that the United States "would be pleased" to discuss such a treaty

Mrs. Lindbergh Keeps Out Of Picture Today; Lets Son Take Glory

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Just a little bewildered by the epochal proportions of Washington's greeting to her famous son, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh remained inconspicuously in the background today as the Cruiser Memphis steamed slowly up the Potomac to reunite mother and son.

Attaches at the temporary White House, where she is the house guest of the President and Mrs. Coolidge, said she was determined to "stay out of the picture" in order that the full plaudits of the multitude might be directed to her son rather than to herself.

"It is his day, and he should have it," she was quoted as saying.

The mother's modesty and retirement, however, could not check the public interest in her appearance. Despite all the precautions taken by officials, there was a crowd of more than a thousand massed in Dupont Circle to witness her arrival at the White House, and early

Brothers Deny Part In Robbery

De Autremont Twins Are On Way To Oregon To Face Charges

DRAMATIC SCENE AS WIFE SAYS GOODBYE

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 11.—Calmly admitting their identity, but emphatically denying that they had any part in the crimes with which they are charged, Ray and Roy De-Autremont, twin brothers, 27, were in county jail here today, awaiting the arrival of deputy sheriffs who are enroute from Jacksonville, Ore., to take them back to face charges of murder and dynamiting a mail train.

"It would have been better if we had stayed and faced the music" declared Ray DeAutremont, while maintaining that he and his brother were innocent. They were brought here late yesterday by department of justice officials, following their arraignment on federal charges of robbing the mails at Steubenville, where they have been in hiding for a year.

Both the DeAutremonts are diminutive of stature, and they had made elaborate efforts to conceal their true identity, Ray by bleaching his hair, and Roy by growing a moustache. They have worked in coal mines, steel mills and other industrial enterprises while in hiding in Ohio during the past year, they said.

A dramatic parting between Ray DeAutremont and his wife and year-old baby occurred after their arraignment in the Steubenville court room late yesterday. The young woman, who married DeAutremont under the name of Elmer Goodwin, and never suspected until his arrest this week that his real name was DeAutremont and that he had been the object of nation wide search for four years, simply said "goodbye" and fell swooning into a courtroom chair, when the brothers were led out by a deputy U. S. marshal.

this morning the Circle was filling up with another thousand anxious to glimpse her as she left the president's home for the navy yard to greet her son.

Mrs. Lindbergh flatly refused to be interviewed. She said she had nothing to say. She smilingly posed for a few seconds on the steps of the White House, waved a friendly hand to the applause that greeted her appearance. Then she disappeared in the house, not to reappear again until the car rolled up to take her to the navy yard dock.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge asked her to accompany them last night to the business meeting of the government, where the president made his annual speech on the fiscal condition of the government, but she declined. After a quiet dinner, at which the only other guest was Dwight Morrow, the financier, she retired to her room and rested against the rigors of today.

REVIVE PROJECT TO WIDEN NESHANNOCK AVE. TO CASCADE ST.

Widening of Neshannock avenue from a point near Rural avenue, north past the paper mill to North Cascade street, is again being discussed as a means of relieving the traffic situation in the down-town district. The project was first suggested about a year ago by T. E. Smith who advocated widening of the road with prison labor. At that time releases from all property owners were secured with the exception of one and it is believed that this can now be secured, those boosting the project say.

into a home for children, an industrial school, playground for children and a picnic ground where parties can enjoy the woods and fresh air.

For some time, according to Mr. Schmidt, interested persons have been looking for a location suitable to the establishing of a plant modeled after the Elbert Hubbard plan in East Aurora, N. Y.

After some investigation the old country club property was found to be the best suited to the purpose for which it is wanted and the club house and part of the surrounding ground have been taken over. Two new buildings will be built within the near future, one for a home, the other for an industrial school.

Mr. Schmidt, his wife and daughter, Esther, have been in charge of the Bible Mission House here for a year but have been anxious to expand their work. The acquisition of the country club property gives them the opportunity.

Every denomination will be welcomed at "The Castle on the Hill" according to Mr. Schmidt. He plans to make it a recreational center for the poor. The industrial school is to have basket and rug weaving machinery put in and waste materials utilized for the production. The ground and building will be dedicated on Sunday afternoon, June 19.

POTOMAC TRIP IS TRIUMPHAL MARCH TO LINDY

Memphis steamed up the Potomac and as planes circled overhead. The boyish air that has been his on the voyage across has gone and he is a serious youth who seems perhaps just a little bit afraid of what waits him and somewhat at a loss to understand why this tremendous fuss is being made.

Colonel Lindbergh stood on the bridge deck and scanned the skies and the shores and the waters, and everywhere he saw tribute being paid him.

Waves to Aviators

The dirigible Los Angeles joined the escort and Lindbergh commented, "Isn't she beautiful". He waved his hand to aviators as they swooped down close to the ship.

Vice Admiral Burrage approached him and handed him notification that he has been made an honorary colonel in the naval reserves. "I can lend you a uniform", said the admiral, and Lindbergh merely smiled and turned his eyes again toward the air and the shores and the waters.

The Memphis approached Quantico, and hundreds of marines, their wives and children, stood on the docks and cheered and Lindbergh waved back to them.

The cruiser rounded a bend in the river and Mount Vernon came into view. Colonel Lindbergh stood at attention, the crew manned the rails, a bugler sounded the sad sweet notes of "taps" and the colors were dipped. Then the cruiser passed the tomb of the nation's father and the order was given to "carry on", but Lindbergh still half at attention, impressed, bewildered and perhaps overjoyed, but with his joy hidden by a very serious reflection that he who set off some three weeks ago as an unheralded youthful adventurer of the air is coming home today a national hero.

course landed in the water. Another officer of the navy has flown to the North Pole. Our own country has been traversed from shore to shore in a single flight.

"It had been apparent for some time that the next great feat in the air would be a continuous flight from mainland of American to the mainland of Europe. Two courageous Frenchmen made the reverse attempt and passed to a fate that is as yet unknown. Others were speeding their preparations to make the trial, but it remained for an unknown youth to tempt the elements and win. It is the same story of valor and victory by a son of the people that shines through every page of American history.

Known For Deeds

"Twenty-five years ago there was born in Detroit, a boy, representing the best traditions of this country, of a stock known for its deeds of adventure and exploration. His father, moved with a desire for public service, was a member of Congress for several terms. His mother, who dowered her son with her own modesty and charm is with us today. Engaged in the vital profession of school-teaching, she has permitted neither money nor fame to interfere with her fidelity to her duties. Too young to have enlisted in the World War, her son became a student at one of the big State universities. His interest in aviation led him to an army aviation school; and in 1925 he was graduated as an airplane pilot. In November, 1926, he had reached the rank of captain in the Officers' Reserve Corps. Making his home in St. Louis, he had joined the One Hundred and Tenth Observation Squadron of the Missouri National Guard. Some of his qualities noted by the army officers who examined him for promotion, as shown by reports in the files of the Militia Bureau of the War Department, are as follows: "intelligent," "industrious," "energetic," "dependable," "purposeful," "alert," "quick of reaction," "serious," "deliberate," "stable," "efficient," "frank," "modest," "congenial," "a man of good moral habits and regular in all his business transaction." One of the officers expressed his belief that the young man "would successfully complete everything he undertakes." It reads like a prophecy.

"Later he became connected with the United States Mail Service where he exhibited marked ability, and from which he is now on leave of absence.

"On a morning just three weeks ago yesterday, this wholesome, earnest, fearless, courageous product of America rose into the air from Long Island in a monoplane christened "The Spirit of St. Louis" in honor of his home and that of his supporters. It was no haphazard adventure. After months of the most careful preparation, supported by a valiant character, driven by an unconquerable will and inspired by the imagination and the spirit of his Viking ancestors, this Reserve officer set wing across the dangerous stretches of the North Atlantic. He was alone. His destination was Paris.

"Thirty-three hours and thirty minutes later, in the evening of the second day, he landed at his destination on the French flying field at Le Bourget. He had travelled over 3,600 miles and established a new and remarkable record. The execution of his project was a perfect exhibition of art.

"This country will always remember the way in which he was received by the people of France, by their President, and by their Government. It was the more remarkable because they were mourning the disappearance of their intrepid countrymen, who had tried to span the Atlantic on a western flight.

"Our messenger of peace and good will had broken down another barrier of time and space and brought two great peoples into closer communication. In less than a day and a half he had crossed the ocean over which Columbus had travelled for 69 days, and the Pilgrim Fathers for 66 days, on their way to the New World. But, above all, in showering applause and honors upon this genial, modest, American youth, with the naturalness, the simplicity and the poise of true greatness, France had the opportunity to show clearly her good will for America and our people. With like acclaim and evidences of cordial friendship our Ambassador without portfolio was received by the rulers, the government, and the peoples of England and Belgium. From other nations came hearty messages of admiration for him and for his country. For these manifold evidences of friendship we are profoundly grateful.

"The absence of self-acclaim, the refusal to become commercialized, which has marked the conduct of this sincere and genuine exemplar of fine and noble virtues, has endeared him to every one. He has returned unspoiled. Particularly has it been delightful to have him refer to his airplane as somehow possessing a personality and being equally entitled to credit with himself, for we are proud that in every particular this silent partner represented American genius and industry. I am told that more than 100 separate companies furnished materials, parts, or service in its construction.

"And now, my fellow citizens, this young man has returned. He is here. He has brought his unsullied fame home. It is our great privilege to welcome back to his native land, on behalf of his own people, who have a deep affection for him and have been thrilled by his splendid achievement, a Colonel of the United States Officers' Reserve Corps, an illustrious citizen of our Republic, a conqueror of the air and strengthener of the ties which bind us to our sister nations across the sea, and, as President of the United States, I bestow the Distinguished Flying Cross, as a symbol of appreciation for what he is and what he has done, upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

popular, ever was the object of such enthusiastic adoration as this young man who flashed meteor-like out of the West a month ago to win immortal fame and glory.

The capital was militantly determined that "Lindy's" homecoming shall not suffer in comparison with the tremendous receptions given him abroad.

For the first time in history a warship has been placed at the disposal of a private citizen that he might journey in speed and comfort from Europe. For the first time in history a President has opened the White House doors to receive a youth of 25 who five weeks ago was unknown to more than half a dozen people in the capital; for the first time in history virtually the entire mobile air force here of the army and navy has been sent into the air to roar a welcome to a private citizen.

The Memphis ran ahead of her schedule coming up the Potomac during the morning. With the army and navy's fastest airplanes setting the pace, the Memphis ploughed the muddy Potomac faster than had been anticipated and at 9:40 a. m., she appeared less than an hour away from the navy yard.

A great cheer went up from the watchers on the dock as the great silver dirigible Los Angeles poked her way through the summery haze and appeared over Bolling Field. Around her, like birds around a hawk, were buzzing airplanes showing the way.

Thousands milled around the gate of the navy yard vainly seeking admission. Hawkers did a good business selling Lindbergh pictures, and gew-gaws. Half a block from the main gate was a large auto truck carrying a sign: "Anheuser-Busch—Welcome Lindbergh with the 'Spirit of St. Louis'." The truck was dispensing free ginger ale to a huge crowd.

Photographers were everywhere. It was estimated that 300 out of town photographers were in Washington for the show, augnenting the scores regularly stationed here.

The Presidential Yacht Mayflower was slipped out of her berth at the dock shortly before 10 o'clock to make room for the Memphis. A sailor, apparently oblivious to the occasion, had his wash drying on a line on the forward deck. The clothes were spotted by an officer and quickly withdrawn.

As the Memphis drew nearer the escorting planes flew low over the river. The Los Angeles also dropped to a lower level. The Potomac was dotted with all manner of craft. It seemed that everything that would float was out on the water.

The planes thrilled the crowd with their maneuvering. They shone like silver as the sun struck their wings. Not once did they lose formation. It was Lindbergh's brother fliers tribute to the returning national hero. All manner of planes, these, slow heavy bombers, fighting craft, and pursuit planes that stroked the skies like lightning.

The Memphis was moving slowly, barely faster than a good walk. A faint white stream of smoke followed in her wake.

Navy officers estimated that the Memphis would require nearly half an hour to make her berth.

The Los Angeles floated lazily directly over top of the Memphis. An escort of small navy craft preceded her. The crowd on the ground could not see the Memphis and was unaware that she was at hand until a coast guard rum chaser turned into the navy yard harbor. The chaser acted at a patrol boat.

Five minutes after the Memphis was signed the sailors aboard the Mayflower were ordered out. They stood at attention aft on the presidential yacht.

Another detachment of sailors was posted at the other end of the wharf.

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of Col. Lindbergh, came to the navy yard shortly before 11 o'clock in a White House automobile. She first stopped at the commandant's office before coming to the dock.

A navy tug put out at 11 o'clock to mid-channel to wharp the Memphis to her berth.

The cabinet and official welcoming committee arrived at the dock at 11:03. They came in a long procession of automobiles that pulled up at the Memphis's berthing place.

Hunt Family Has Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hunt entertained the Hunt Reunion Wednesday, June 8, at the Packard Park of Warren, O. The entire event was a enjoyable affair, including a chicken dinner served at the shelter house in the park. Mrs. John Moore of near Eastbrook was presented with a birthday cake by her cousin, Mrs. Minnie White of Warren. Mrs. Eliza McFarland was the oldest guest present, she resides with her daughter Mrs. McConkey, who lives on the Eastbrook improved road. A business meeting was held following the dinner. Minutes of the last meeting were read at this time.

Election of officers was held with the following results: President, A. T. Hunt; vice president, Harlan McFarland; secretary, Mrs. W. E. Currie; treasurer, Andrew Pounds.

A greeting from Margaret Hunt Hays of Norwich, Kansas, was read in which she stated that she greatly enjoyed the Kansas sunshine.

The Hunt reunion is one of the oldest in the county. In two years they will celebrate their golden anniversary. The first reunion was held on the farm owned by S. J. Hunt near the Harlansburg road. Next year the members of this family will meet at the Liberty Grange hall with Mrs. Martha Macom as hostess.

mention the possible size of the reduction. He warned congress not to seize upon the surplus as an excuse to engage in a spending orgy.

"One thing is certain," he said, "unless we succeed in holding expenditures at about their present level, hope of further tax reduction will be gone."

It was a rosy report which Mr. Coolidge gave to the government's financial status. In the seven years the budget has been in operation, the public debt has been reduced one billion dollars a year. The government's income is above the estimates, while the expenditures are $100,000,000 below the estimates for the year.

"I do not hesitate to say," he declared, "that one of the greatest safeguards of this nation, financially, socially and morally, lies in constructive economy in government."

He reiterated his belief that a sizeable portion of the surplus should be applied to a reduction of the national debt, rather than be all eaten up in tax reduction or unwarranted appropriations.

Two Slight Accidents Reported To Police

FLAGS ARE OUT FOR LINDBERGH

East Washington street was bedecked with flags today, following the plan being carried out in many cities, in honor of the home-coming of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, America's "lone eagle of the air."

Although no official request was made in this city to display the stars and stripes, many were out on the curbstones of East Washington street and from the porches of many homes of the city.

In this way the citizens of this country, too far away from his actual arrival, paid their tribute.

THE BOY SCOUTS

WHAT the Boy Scouts now mean to the United States and what they may be able to accomplish in the future are indicated by a recent report on the activities of this interesting and wholly beneficial organization.

The scouts have grown from nothing in 1910 to their present membership of more than 840,000, enrolled in a movement that makes for manhood and disinterested service. Growth of the movement has necessitated the creation of an elaborate national organization for its proper guidance and direction.

What the scouts have before them, in service to themselves in the development of character and to their communities in relief work, is shown by their past activities and deeds. Their co-operation in recent disasters, notably in the Florida hurricane and Mississippi flood areas, in life-saving, in conservation and reforestation, and in the protection of wild life, has been invaluable.

These good deeds and great works are not to be discounted; but more important than all else is the spirit of helpfulness and service inculcated in the boys.

The men who organized the Boy Scout movement and its thousands of troops and are working among the 840,000 scouts are to be commended for their service to Young America, but one likes to think of the Boy Scouts as an organization of boys working among themselves. Most of the credit must be given to the boys who are making themselves good boys and good future citizens.

SELF SERVICE

MANY good folk are lamenting the passing of the era when men and women consecrated their lives to unselfish service and prepared themselves to become ministers, missionaries, teachers or country doctors that they might administer to the spiritual, mental and physical needs of humanity without thought of large worldly gain. They are not in error when they charge that modern men and women are choosing vocations today in which they can do the greatest service to themselves.

People today are coming to the belief that the best way they can help others is to produce much that their profit shall be large and that they shall never become dependent upon society. The old idea of service was direct. The new service is indirect. Twenty years ago it was still thought that only ministers, doctors and teachers served humanity. Today every workman who carries his whole day's wage home is known to have earned that wage in service to society.

Elbert Hubbard's version of the Golden Rule was, "Do unto others as though you were the others," but an even more up-to-date versions is "Do yourself much good and no bad to others." Getting something for yourself is reprehensible only when it is gotten at the expense of another.

RECORD TREASURY SURPLUS

LATE in March President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon and certain congressmen were concerned because the year's federal treasury surplus, previously estimated as high as $750,000,000, might drop to $400,000,000 as March income-tax returns sank below expectations. And it was not good news to the taxpayer who knows treasury surpluses usually precede tax reductions.

But now there is jubilation all around. Secretary Mellon, farfamed as an ultra-conservative, now predicts a surplus of more than $600,000,000 on June 30. Large and unexpected treasury receipts explain, in part, what will be the greatest surplus in the federal government's history, if Secretary Mellon has not exaggerated. That Mr. Mellon has underestimated rather than overestimated the surplus is the contention of some authorities who place the surplus at $700,000,000.

Next to paying taxes it seems the thing that troubles the American people most is deciding what to do with surpluses of public money. The inevitable debate will begin among congressmen and on the street corner on the day the exact extent of the surplus becomes known.

The United States still has a national debt of approximately $18,000,000,000, and there are many who will urge that all or most of the treasury balance be used in reducing it. Their best argument is that the smaller the debt the less the interest charge, and every interest cut means a cut in taxes. From another quarter will come a demand for returning the surplus to the taxpayers in the form of a tax refund. That it will be seen as a juicy melon by the Mississippi flood sufferers and farm aid bloc is a foregone conclusion.

JUNE

THE poets have done well by June. The subject supplies inspiration enough for any rhymester to do his best.

If June is ordinarily well behaved it deserves all that the great and little poets have sung about it. Occasionally the month shows a rebellious spirit, but so rarely is this true that the exceptions may be taken to prove the poet's rule of blessedness and praise for June.

Nature perfects herself in the sixth month of the year. Perhaps some persons will hold that nature's perfection comes at the harvest season which falls well forward into the hazy days. There is, however, a harvest of flowers as well as of fruits and grains, and the abundance of blossoms comes in June along with brides, girl graduates and other things pleasant to look upon.

And so the earth is losing speed. Well, that sounds hopeful. Perhaps it is on the up-grade.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:30. Sun rises tomorrow 4:28.

United we stand for more than we are going to get.

A prominent physician and planter in Georgia was acquitted by a jury when he was charged with beating four negroes. One colored chap swore he was told not to testify. When those Democratic big boys on the U. S. Senate from the South get the light on their actions there is going to be some thing doing.

Germany wants to send our two flyers home in a German warship. Germany sure is doing all she can to show she holds no ill feeling towards us, and the best sign is that we are getting paid what is coming to us.

"What's your birthstone?" was asked a grouch. "The grindstone," snapped the grouch, and he really seemed to believe it.

In the good old days the Romeo got on his knees instead of depending on his hip.

A woman at Greensburg, Pa., was given a divorce because her husband was "mighty mean." Lots of divorces could be had by women on the same grounds.

There is great grief in Steubenville, O., because six barrels of beer and whisky imported from Canada to be used in a municipal campaign were seized by the prohibition forces. There were evidently some wets bent on getting into office again there.

Heard on Highland avenue car yesterday: Mother: "Why Tommy, you're too old to cry." Tommy: "Yes, and I'm too young to get what I'm crying for, boo, hoo!"

Col. Lindbergh's dentist will be in Washington to meet him. We hope it is not to collect a bill.

America isn't so slow when it comes to flying after all. We have beaten the world so far and all we seem to need is an organized air army and we can scare the daylights out of all Europe after what has happened recently.

All the bad little boys are sorry that school is out now. Uh-huh!

Some time ago we advertised three doors for sale. They did not go when the ad was in the for sale column and after we mentioned them in this column they were sold. Of course this column will not be opened for the sale of second-hand doors on that account.

Before the Scottish Rite Cathedral was opened the Senior High School Building was used by the Masonic bodies in which to hold the semi-annual reunions. The school board put a charge on for the use of the building which was agreeable to all concerned. Now the Consistory people are reciprocating by letting the school board have the new building on the same terms as the Consistory paid for the use of the high school building. The cost has been very reasonable in both cases. Helping one another is the motto of the Cathedral authorities.

The Perry Highway is to be completed wthin the next four years. Quite a stretch of it goes through Lawrence County and we will strike the highway at Harlansburg. It is to be built entirely at the expense of the state. Many of us who have been working for this wonderful road are mighty pleased. It will be a memorial to Admiral Perry, the hero of the battle of Lake Erie and will reach from Pittsburgh to Erie.

In Iowa a hail storm damaged the onion crop to the extent of a quarter of a million dollars. They must take the onions seriously in that state.

It is reported that Mrs. Earl Carrol is very bitter at the government because her husband, he of wine bath tub fame, had to go to the pen. The laws are all wrong when they hit people who want special privileges. Seems to us that bath tub party ought to have kind of made the wife feel as though she had been slighted.

THE OPTIMISTS

An injuditious Thomas cat
Had quite an altercation
With one much larger than himself—
They fought like all tarnation.
The foresaid Thomas lost an eye,
An ear was also missing,
His nose was split, his hide was wrecked,
His breath came short and hissing.

He feebly crawled beneath a porch
To take an inventory
Of what there still remained of him,
So scratched and wrecked and gory.
Two politicians on the porch
Discussed the late election—
Their party had been beaten quite
Beyond all recollection.

They figured out in view of what
The full returns was showing
The other party had no cause
For shouting or for blowing.
Their party sure had made some gains—
It had, despite their hooting,
Which in itself was victory,
A fact beyond disputing.

When Thomas cat heard this he said:
"I must have been mistaken,
I guess I whipped that other cat
And left him badly shaken.
But if I'd whip him, as I did,
Just once more, 'tis a sure thing
There'd scare be left enough of me
To make a violin string.

S. S. MYERS.

June 23 is coming fast. That is the day Mr. Berquist gives the picnic at Cascade Park for the kiddies. It takes a scandalous amount of grub to feed those kids and it would never do not to have enough. You are expected to help out and Mr. Berquist will tell you what he still needs if you ask him.

Mayor Kline of Pittsburgh admits himself that he is the best mayor that city ever had. It seems to us that if he let other people say those nice things about him they would sound better. We know in our case we would prefer it that way.

The lady who is president of the New York W. C. T. U. is much wrought up because the two American flyers ordered two beers when they flew into Berlin. On the other hand, just think of the birds who read about those two beers being ordered and how they had to strive to keep their thirst from rising—or whatever thirst does. Beer is sort of a bread in Germany and a W. C. T. U. could never exist there if, beer was one of the things it was against. There is a great difference in countries and customs.

A tourist comes back to this country and says he found Italy about 90 per cent solid for Mussolini. It is only in America that such a report can be given. Mussolini says that Italy is 101 per cent solid for him, and there is no one there yet to dispute it or him.

Dear Sir: Epitaphs and radios get frequent space and mention in your column, so I have combined the two in the following:

Here lies the remains of a radio fan,
Mourned by his many relations;
He lit his pipe near a powder can,
And was picked up by 20 stations.

I have about concluded that the old-fashioned duel, with all its faults, was more gentlemanly than the way our bootleggers and dry agents shoot at each other.

It may yet become necessary to establish one-way thoroughfares and traffic signals to avoid congestion in the air on the routes to England, France and Germany.

Mussolini is reported to have made the statement that he wanted the finest army in the world for Italy. He ought to call up the ex-Kaiser and ask him what became of the last finest army in the world.

When a distinguished citizen is given the freedom of the city, it doesn't mean that he has more liberty than the old residenters. There isn't much liberty for anyone in any city. But it is nice to talk about.

Now when the graduates start out in an effort to get a job they will realize just why quitting school is called their commencement.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles G. Jordan urges all people in the State to travel in the rural sections of Pennsylrania. You know, that is a good idea. A good many people think there is nothing in Pennsylvania but steel and tin mills and coal mines. These people lose sight of the fact that some of the finest farms in the world are here and some of the most beautiful scenery ever made for eyes to gaze upon. And you can't beat the roads anywhere. It will take several years to know your own state and after that you can travel elsewhere and appreciate the old Keystone State.

The boy with sisters is lucky. He knows how a girl looks before breakfast.

Despite the charges that are being made in Allegheny county cities that everything is wide open, that no efforts are being made to enforce the laws, police in the cities down there want wage increases. But then, that is the way it goes. The men who can go out and get business and increase volume seldom get much for it. It is the birds who sit back and do the work that is handed them that get the gravy.

There is a plan on foot to erect a church at Norristown, which is handy to Valley Forge of Revolutionary fame, that will seat 5,000. We can't see the necessity for such a big church unless they expect to hold some kind of amusements in it.

It isn't only the inland towns that suffer because of lack of pure water. We recently read of a tanker that had to go 110 miles out from New York to get some clean and pure salt water for the aquarium there. How's that one for New York to laugh off.

The hard job of "peaceful" nations isn't to keep the peace but to keep the pace.

Bull Whale and Atheist.
Short News.
Nathan Straus Recovers.
Lady Astor Defends Eve.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright, 1927, By N. Y. American, Inc.

A lookout on the cruiser Memphis, bringing Lindbergh home, called out, "There she blows, broad on the starboard bow." Lindbergh, on the bridge, saw a big bull whale, accompanied by his "cows," keeping close to their lord and master as he rolled and spouted.

Nothing could have made that bull whale believe that the tiny man on the bridge had flown across the Atlantic ocean, in the other direction.

How can you hope to make an atheist believe that there exists a divine intelligence flashing from one universe to another, pervading all space? The bull whale and the atheist know you can't fool them.

Some of the news runs briefly, as follows:

Charles A. Levine, who flew the ocean, will spend $2,000,000 on transatlantic air lines. Success to him.

Governor Frank O. Lowden's supporters say he ought to be nominated in 1928 and will organize "Lowden for President" clubs all over the country to oppose Calvin Coolidge.

John Drew has a relapse and doctors are worried. He is 73 years old. He has given pleasure to many of his fellow citizens.

New York will authorize a building 101 stories high. Men should find out how high they really can build.

A Lindbergh tower in Chicago, more than 1,300 feet high will prove Mayor Thompson's determination "to make Chicago first in everything."

Nathan Straus has recovered from his illness, and will leave the hospital in two or three days. This is good news to thousands of mothers who owe their children's lives to the intelligent, scientific charity of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus.

Patent pockets for bathing suits will keep matches and lipsticks dry. That will interest thousands not at all interested in "artificial creation of life."

Great Britain will try a 5,000 mile air hop, from England to Asia. Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Levine have started things.

Reporters will fly out 100 miles to meet Lindbergh, look at him standing on deck, then fly back ahead of the Memphis, and tell how Lindbergh looked and what he seemed to be thinking.

Field Marshal Haig says Great Britain really won the war, and could have won it without the help of the United States.

That won't hurt Uncle Sam's feelings, if our friends across the ocean will kindly pay back the money they borrowed.

Emil Ludwig, who wrote a good book about Napoleon, now calls the German ex-kaiser a "poor, nervous man who never was the war lord, or demon of war, he was said to be."

Lady Astor, a Virginia girl in Britain's Parliament, and a credit to the United States every day, feels about Adam just about as Ludwig feels about the kaiser. Eve, says Lady Astor, was an angel compared to Adam, who was nothing but a weakling.

Sir Oliver Lodge, who believes in ghosts and spirits, says that with synthetic protoplasm life can be created in the laboratory. This, says Lodge, does not belittle God's power, for man is God's creation and might well imitate his maker on a small scale.

He might, but he won't. That is, he will not create the only life that counts—the life that thinks.

Real life is thought, not matter.

THE MEASURE OF MERCY:—Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving kindness: according to the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions. Psalm 51:1.

In Day's News

Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield, who has been chosen vice president of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, today enters upon his sixtieth year. Dr. Butterfield is president of Michigan State Agricultural College at East Lansing. He is a native of Michigan and in his early career was connected with the State Agricultural College, or with the State University as a teacher of rural economics and sociology. Then he moved to the East, where he went first to the Rhode Island College of Agricultural and Mechanical Arts and then to Massachusetts State College of Agriculture. He remained with the last-named institution until his return to Michigan State College as president. Dr. Butterfield has served on some of the most important national commissions dealing with problems of agriculture and rural credit.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

FOUR TYPES

Mr. R. Bennett Bean, of the University of Virginia, classifies men into four types, we read in the N. Y. Times.

They are cerebral, respiratory, muscular or digestive.

What he means by this is as follows:

The cerebral type is one with a big brain for a well-developed mind and a little brain for the body.

Of this type are Presidents Wilson and Jefferson, Julius Caesar and Napoleon, Hamilton, Beethoven and Poe, as well as Bismarck, Franklin, Darwin and Lloyd George also being here.

These cerebral types the idealists. They view the world as it ought to be. They are in advance of their times and from them martyrs are made.

The respiratory type is distinguished by large respiratory organs and great chest measures. It lives outdoors and pines away or becomes diseased in the house.

Of such are George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, as well as John Marshall and Leonardo de Vinci.

They are the pioneers and live in the open.

The muscular type are athletic. They are fine horsemen and good mountain climbers. Babe Ruth and Red Grange belong here. Venus de Milo is a sample of this type. Note her robust and healthy figure and compare it with the slender figure sought by the ladies of today.

The digestive type runs more to avoirdupois.

It furnishes most of the fun in the world.

It has a large abdomen, great jaws and teeth, and rolls of fat.

Of such a type was Falstaff. It runs to aldermen and bishops and is probably more human and sympathetic than the other types.

Just which of these ideals is the most necessary it is hard to say.

Perhaps the world needs a little of all of them.

To what type do you belong?

After all, your views of life may largely be due to the type to which you belong. There are sedentary views and there are active views.

It is hard for an outdoor sort of man, such as was President Roosevelt, to coincide with the views of a desk sort of man. He viewed human activities from a different angle.

It takes all kinds of people to make up a world and the best cement for universal opinion is tolerance and, as far as may be, understanding.

The commission that is investigating the facts of the Sacco-Vanzetti case ought to determine in the minds of the fair-minded people whether or not the men were fairly tried and convicted, and if the evidence warranted the verdict. But if the commission so finds it won't convince some of the boys who have already made up their minds on the case.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ITALIAN FARMERS

When the virtues and shortcomings of the Italian Race are in question, the people of New Castle and Lawrence County assert they are in as good, if not a better, position to act as judges than the people of any other County in the United States. It is probable that there are more men and women of Italian descent living in Lawrence County, proportionate to the population of the County than in any other County in America, and Lawrence County has no apologies to offer for its Italian citizenship. Any Community ought to be proud of having assisted in the making over into good Americans our many Italians.

The greatest ambition of the Italian is to own his own home and a garden where he can grow flowers and vegetables. Many of this Race have devoted their lives to farming as soon as they were able to obtain enough land upon which to work. These Italians have worked at all sorts of labor until they were able to obtain the land. Some even have been waiters in hotels and restaurants. It may seem to be a far cry from a la carte service of a great, New York hotel, to the table d'hote dinner at an Italian farmhouse, but such has happened.

Harvesting time had arrived at this particular farm which had recently been purchased by two Italians and the neighboring farmers had assembled to help the Italians fill their silo. As the dinner hour approached the visiting farmers were somewhat dismayed at the thought of dinner composed of spaghetti and other equally, to them, distasteful Italian dishes, but on the other hand, they did not care to offend their new neighbors. So after much discussion they decided to eat and say nothing. Shortly afterwards, they were summoned to dinner, and then, to their astonishment, they found the Italians, dressed in the correct attire of New York waiters, at the door ready to receive them, and the table laid with gleaming linen, glistening china, and sparkling silver.

The joke was on the farmers, for one of the Italians had been the head chef of a large New York hotel, and besides the farmers did not know how to eat with so much style.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AT THE START OF THE ROAD.

Here is the road, and here's the chart of dangers.
Be not too quick to heed the words of strangers.

Far lies the goal; through scenes of filth and beauty.
Let another one withhold you from your duty.

Play when you may and take your need of pleasure.
But let it neither drain your strength nor treasure.

Passions you have, but rule them in this fashion;
Make what is best for you your strongest passion.

If you've the will to reach that distant station
Then you can turn your back on all temptation.

Smooth tongues shall say your passions rule and bind you,
Resist those pleadings; put them all behind you.

Here is the road; the distance none can measure,
Soon you shall see 'tis strewn with wrecks of pleasure.

Theirs is an old and oft repeated story,
They thought themselves unfit for deeds of glory.

They heard and fancied they were doomed to weakness,
Son, yield to passion no such abject meekness.

Think of yourself as fit to be a master,
Make this your passion and escape disaster.

C. B. D. CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

NOT EASILY SPOILED

A young couple that I know recently visited for several weeks at the home of the wife's parents. One day the old gentleman heard the young man paying his wife pretty compliments.

"You shouldn't do that, Albert", said the father-in-law. "You can spoil a woman mighty easily that way. If you talk like a beau to her all the time she'll be spoiled as sure as shooting."

"Why, I can say that I agree with you", answered Albert. "We've been married 10 years now, and Betty isn't a bit spoiled yet."

"But you haven't talked beau-fashion to her all that time, have you?" asked the older man in astonishment.

"Yes, I believe I have, come to think of it. Women like to hear nice things said about them after they're married, as well as before, I suppose."

"Well, my boy", said the older man, sadly, "Betty is a well-balanced girl, but I'm afraid you'll turn her head yet. I have always considered Betty's mother about the best woman alive, but you bet your life I've never told her so. I don't want to spoil her, you know."

In this case, which is not an unusual one, I believe the younger man shows the greater wisdom. Many men of the elder generation were convinced that the only time to talk in a complimentary manner to women was when one wasn't married to them. After marriage, it was thought, a woman should be satisfied with groceries instead of pleasant words. Of course, it must be admitted that many men of the younger generation hold to the same doctrine.

It's based on a misconception of the facts. Women aren't spoiled by appreciative words from their husbands. They are much more likely to be spoiled by lack of polite and courteous conduct on the part of the men they have married.

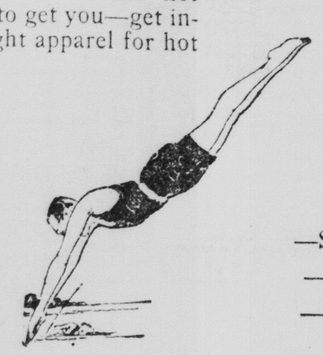

When your wife looks pretty or bakes a good pie, tell her about it. It will make her happy and won't spoil her a bit.

C. H. Blank Enters Commissioner Race

Ellwood City Man Announces Candidacy For County Office At Primary

C. H. BLANK

C. H. Blank, one of Ellwood City's better known and more successful business men, today announces his formal entrance into the contest at the September primary, for the Republican nomination as county commissioner.

Successful in his own business and pledging that if successful in winning the office, that he will use the same methods that have proven so successful in his own business in the conduct of the affairs of the taxpayers of Lawrence county, he is asking the support of the Republican voters of the county.

Since becoming a resident of Ellwood City in 1904, he has been in the builders supply business, his business growing in the same proportion as the community. He has been active in the interest of good roads and all other civic efforts of the county and Ellwood City. As a good roads advocate, he has always been active in the Tri-County Good Roads Association and for many years has been the chairman of the good roads committee of that organization.

He is a member of Trinity Lutheran church, Ellwood City and one of the most active of its members. He is married and has one daughter.

In connection with his announcement today, Mr. Blank said: "If nominated and elected to the office of county commissioner by the Republican voters of Lawrence county, I wish it to be understood that I will in no sense of the word be the representative of any particular district, but will at all times work for the interests of the entire county to the best of my ability. I pledge myself to exerise the same care in the expenditure of the money of the taxpayers of Lawrence county that I have and do use in my own business and while endeavoring at all times to keep the district abreast of the times in the matter of all things that might add to the comfort and welfare of all the people, will seek to practice and put into effect all possible economies, that will keep the taxation within reasonable bounds. On these principles I respectfully solicite the votes of the Republican voters of Lawrence county in the primary of September 20, 1927."

New Castle Folks To Greet Lindy

Several New Castle people will be in Washington today to see the welcome home for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, the New York to Paris flyer. Robert Armstrong of Norwood avenue, left Friday evening for the capitol to witness the celebration. Mr. Armstrong is a former flyer, having been a naval airman during the World war.

Other New Castle people in Washington at the present time are Harold C. Hunter, secretary to Congressman J. Howard Swick, Carl C. Hall and Charles Wirsing.

LIVINGSTONE'S HOME SAVED

The home of David Livingstone, the great African explorer, is to be included in the national memorial that is to be established in Scotland. Of the $60,000 required for the plan nearly one-half has been subscribed, according to the report of the committee in charge. The committee plans to spend $35,000 in the purchase and alteration of the explorer's former home at Blantyre, and will use the balance of the subscription funds in memorials in other parts of the country. It expects to have the improvements to the building complete before fall. The Glasgow Rotary Club is taking an active part.

June Month For Divorces As Well As June Brides

Six Applications In Which Cruel Treatment And Desertion Are Grounds

June is establishing a record for divorce applications as well as for June brides. Six were filed at the prothonotary's office today. They were as follows:

Estella W. Powell asks to be separated from Winfield L. Powell, on the grounds of adultery. They were married in March, 1916, and lived together until May, 1927. Mrs. Powell claims her husband has been unfaithful.

Josephine Zegzdine has filed an application for divorce from Vincent J. Zegzdine on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. They were married in June, 1926, and lived together until February, 1927.

Olive E. Robinson wants a divorce from Luther R. Robinson on the grounds of desertion. They were married in March, 1913, and lived together until May, 1918.

Cruelty is alleged in an application for divorce filed by Joseph Tuscano against Mary Tuscano. They were married in March, 1919, and lived together until May, 1927.

Nettie M. Brophy wants a divorce from Dennis Brophy on the grounds of desertion. They were married in February, 1913, and lived together until October, 1914.

Phillys W. Miller asks to be separated from Alex. Miller on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. They were married in July, 1919, and lived together until May, 1927.

Large Strawberry Crop In Stoneboro District

MERCER, Pa., June 11. A good strawberry crop is predicted by growers of the Stoneboro colony where is raised the largest crop of berries in western Pennsylvania each year.

The frosts of the early month and May nipped some of the early berries but not many it is reported. The crop at Stoneboro will be ready to start picking next week.

Just how long it will last will depend entirely on the climatic conditions for the remainder of the month, rain and sunshine in sandwiched periods are necessary to ripen berries. The crop of 1926 in this region totaled over 3000 bushels.

It is reported that that of this year will be equally as good it is expected. The crop has already been contracted for with the difference that while in 1926 the berries were all purchased by one buyer and shipped by express they are being sold this season by the individual owners to buyers who expect to truck them to New Castle, Sharon and Youngstown.

The price is $3.50 to $4.00 a bushel the 1926 market on them.

Bugle And Drum Corps Celebrate Flag Day

GOVE CITY, Pa., June 11.—The American Legion Bugle and Drum Corps will parade at noon Monday, June 14th, in observance of Flag Day. The colors will be paraded along with the Corps. This will be Grove City's first chance to see and hear the newly organized Bugle and Drum Corp and it is expected that many will turn out on Monday to see the local boys parade. Six more instruments have recently been added to the organization, making a total of twenty-two instruments, twelve bugles, seven snare drums, one bass drum and one pair of symbols.

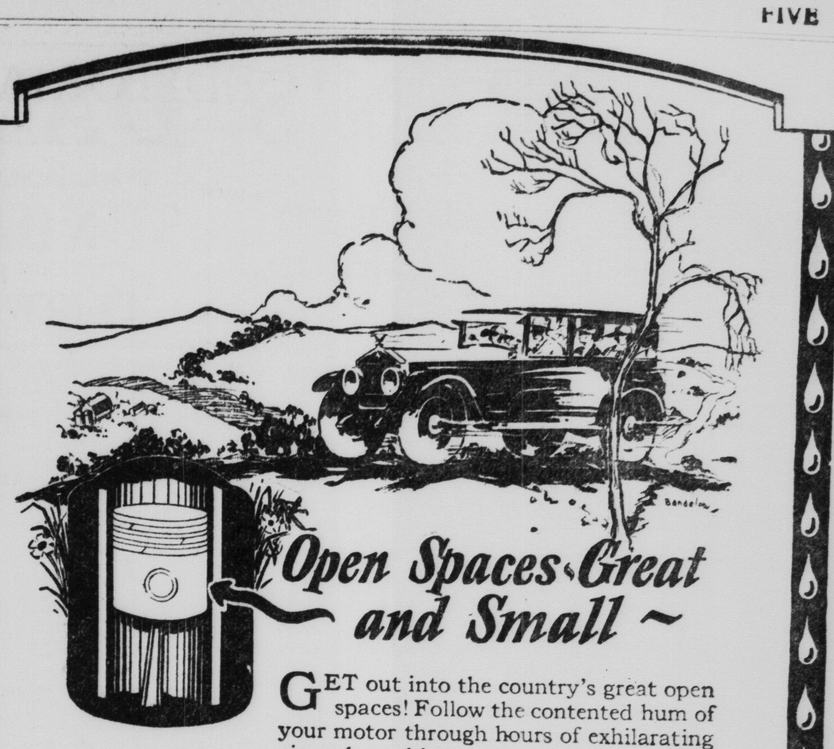

But, unfortunately, it's not always fair weather when brave fellows fly together.—The Saginaw News Courier.

Lindbergh At Washington At Penn Monday

The welcome of the American nation to Col. Charles Lindbergh at Washington will be shown on the screen at the Penn theatre Monday evening. Pathe News Camerman men are on the job today and notice has been received by letter that the films will be printed and sent by airplane to distributing points for showing just as fast as they are made.

The entire reception will be covered from the time the Memphis lands at the Washington Navy Yard to the presenting of the medal by President Coolidge.

If you can't be in Washington to greet Lindbergh see the reception on the screen at the Penn Monday.

Open Spaces Great and Small ~

GET out into the country's great open spaces! Follow the contented hum of your motor through hours of exhilarating air and sunshine.

But THINK of those other open spaces — the ones between your pistons and their cylinder walls. Although small, relatively, they are large enough to require a lubricant which will fill them up — and which stays put, preventing white hot motor heats from breaking it down, preventing pistons from rubbing cylinder walls.

Sentence Sermons

By Rev. Roy D. Smith, D. D.

SOME OF OUR CHARITY—

Is cruel because it is unintelligent.
Begins at home and dies in its tracks.
Is wicked because it discourages self-help.
Brings no satisfaction because it is grudgingly given.
Is worth more to the giver than to the recipient.
Is more than half cruelty because it is so tardy.
Is only an effort to settle with our own conscience.

SAFETY HEAD MUST SERVE TERM

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 11.—David Scott, former safety director, must serve a penitentiary sentence, following a decision by the appellate court. Scott was convicted of obtaining money under false pretense while working as a constable out of squire's court. He was sent to the penitentiary several years ago for bribery, while acting as safety director.

The hold-up men who robbed an editor the other day must have done it just for the practice.

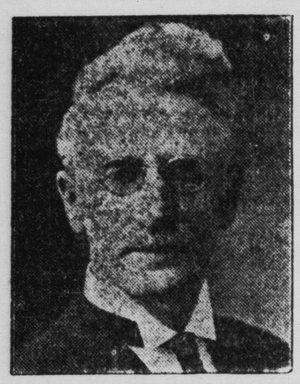

Blesseth Is He That Considereth The Poor—Ps. 41:1.

TAKE EVERY IDOL OUT FROM IN BEHIND THE DOOR, from every nook and corner, from ceiling to the floor, in every home and mansion, from garret to the cellar—furniture and clothing, shoes and books, rugs and carpets—all we ask are the articles that are a hinderance and waste and nuisance—we make quilts and rag carpet out of old clothes, repair broken furniture, we sell old newspapers and magazines to pay light and heat and water. Food, clothing, lodging, free bath, free Bibles in all languages for the poor and needy—men, women, children, black and white. Everybody welcome. Program Of Worship In Local Churches

Children's Day Pageant To Take Place In Methodist Episcopal Church Here

Communion Service To Be Observed In Lutheran And Bell Memorial Churches

ELLWOOD CITY, June 11.—Program of services in the local churches for tomorrow are planned as follows:

Methodist Church

At 11 o'clock in the morning in the Methodist church, sixty children will put on a play entitled "Gretchen's Wonderful Adventure." The idea embodied in the play is that Gretchen falls asleep and dreams that she is a poor dirty urchin, and then of course, the fairy queen appears with an elaborate entourage, and permits Gretchen to drink from the various cups of Knowledge. When she eventually awakens, she realizes that there is a way she can procure this knowledge even though poor—the moral being that on each Children's Day donations are solicited to educate poor children.

The character of Gretchen will be played by Miss Mary Telson, while the Fairy Queen part will be portrayed by Miss Bernice Porter.

Lutheran Church

The Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered in the Trinity Lutheran church Sunday, having been preceded by Preparatory service Friday evening. Rev. Baker preaching on "A Pledge and a Seal of the Forgiveness of Sin."

Bell Memorial

Rev. Joseph Engle of Bessemer preached the preparatory service Friday evening, for the administering of Holy Communion tomorrow in the Bell Memorial church. Sunday school at 9:45. Morning worship at 11:00. Junior and Intermediate Christian Endeavor, 7:00 and Evening service at 7:45. Next Sunday will be Children's day.

Christian Church

Bible school at 9:45 a. m. Preaching service at 10:45 a. m. Rev. Huffer preaching on "The Lost Ax Head." There will be special program during the Bible school exercises. Evening service at 7:45 p. m. Sermon topic "Work Your Own Garden," with special music.

Baptist Church

Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. Preaching service by Rev. Macgeorge at 10:45 a. m. Young Peoples meeting at 7:00 p. m. Evening service at 7:45 p. m.

Slippery Rock

Morning worship at 10:00. Adult sermon on "Forgiveness of Sin." Childrens' sermon on "Dead Stop" by Rev. Paul Elliott. Christian Endeavor members meet at 7:30 for the presentation of the Childrens program which will take place at 8 o'clock. During the Christian Endeavor there will be special music by Miss Sara and Jean Steele.

Slippery Rock To Have Children's Day

Elaborate Program To Be Given At Church For Kiddies

ELLWOOD CITY, June 11.—Activities in the Slippery Rock Presbyterian church tomorrow will be turned over to the children of the church and Sunday school. The following is a partial program of events, which will include five drills:

A drill for boys, "Shall We Grow Like Jesus," enacted by Samuel Elliott, Robert Weyman, Harold Johns, Frank Blaine and Ray Johns.

A drill, "Flower Verses," with Esther Cole, Ruth Steele, Meriam Forman, Dorothy Elliott, Ruth Cole and Myrtle Walker.

Drill entitled "Forget-Me-Nots" by the following children: Jeane Steele, Esther Cole, Rosie Flesher, Catherine Schuler, Dorothy Brown, Betty Friday and Marie Weyman.

"The Great Book Devine," Anna Johns, Betty Johns, Flore May Houk, Irene Wilson and Dorothy Barnett.

"Awakening of Flowers," with character parts enacted by the following boys and girls: Sara Steele, James Blaine, Warren Weyman, Gladys Houk, Dallas Houk, George Elliott, Hazel Walker and Helen Harper. Recitations by: Donald Wilson, Sara Steele, Betty Johns, Ray Johns, Rea Meehan and Betty Cole.

There will be two choruses by the primary department, one by the classes; a duet by Kenneth and Viola Houk; solos by Dorothy Elliott and Mary Houk. Members of the Young Peoples council will contribute two songs.

Storm Floods Streets And Cellars Friday

ELLWOOD CITY, June 11.—Right on the heels of the storm sewer project up before the members of the Borough council, comes a huge storm last night which turned the streets into rivers and whirl-pools of muddy water, and according to report, flooded some of the stores in the new Evans building on Fifth street, just beyond the subway.

To Fly to Moon

Max Valier, of Vienna, would go the trans-Atlantic fliers one better. He has invented a rocket in which he believes he can shoot himself to the moon. One Goddard, professor at Clark University, Boston, hopes to build a similar rocket.

Ladies To Have Season Of Sports At Country Club

ELLWOOD CITY, June 11.—Notices have been sent to all lady members, and members' wives of the Ellwood City Country club regarding the program of sports being arranged by Miss Louise Barton, chairman of the Women's Golf committee.

The weekly program is as follows: Tuesday morning, the professional will be on hand at 8:30 o'clock to arrange matches, etc. Thursday evening Golf or Tennis with dinner at 7:00 o'clock. As soon as the putting greens are ready, announcements will be made. In regards to Tennis, women are allowed on the courts at all times under the regular ruling. Friday afternoon, after 3:00 o'clock, they will be reserved for women exclusively.

A cup has been presented by the 1927 Ladies' committee and a tournament will be played later. A Tennis Tournament will also be played for a cup, as well as a putting tournament. Exact dates for the above events will be announced later, and they will be placed late enough in the season to permit beginners to get in some practice. Golf players should keep score cards and hand them in so that the various handicaps can be fixed.

Temperance Ladies Plan For Social

Plan To Attend Inter-County Institute In Beaver Falls June 30-July 1

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., June 11.—The regular semi-monthly meeting of the local Woman's Christian Temperance Union took place last night in the United Presbyterian church with a large representation of members.

On June 20, the Union will give a "Parcels Post" social at the home of Mrs. George Earhart on Fourth street. Committees were named as follows: refreshment, Mrs. M. M. Osborne, Mrs. Frank McKim and Mrs. William Grey; entertainment, Mrs. Edith Barnhart and Mrs. Mary Christy.

The members talked of attending the Inter-County institute which will take place June 30 and July 1. Delegates will attend from five counties. Official delegates from the local union are: Mrs. Ray Hemmerlin and Mrs. James McKim. Headquarters for the institute will be the First Methodist church of Beaver Falls.

Members of the refreshment committee for last night's meeting are: Mrs. Margaret Kennedy, Mrs. Geo. Earhart and Mrs. Robert Grandey.

Orange Ladies Plan Picnic

ELLWOOD CITY, June 11.—Members of the Orange Ladies lodge, at their regular semi-monthly business meeting last night in the Luxenberg hall, completed their plans for the annual picnic that will take place July 12 in Idora Park. There will be free amusement tickets for the children, and free coffee for the visitors bringing their lunches.

Several applications were received for membership at last night's meeting. At the conclusion of routine business the meeting adjourned until June 24.

HOME FOR SUMMER

ELLWOOD CITY, June 11.—The Misses Lois and Marjorie Myers, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Myers of Smiley Stop have returned to their home for the summer from Tiffen, Ohio, where they were students in the Heidelburg college.

Famous Comedian Entertains Men At Shelby Tourney

Leon Errol, Well Known Comedian From New York, Convulses Shelby Officials

ELLWOOD CITY, June 11.—About two hundred officials of the National Tube company from the local plant and plants in Pittsburgh, Elyria and McKeesport, enjoyed the antics and after-dinner stories of Leon Errol, well-known broadway favorite, known as the "comedian with the rubber knees."

However, his legs behaved themselves last night, but his stories convulsed the crowd.

The afternoon activities consisted of several golf tournaments, the prizes being boxes of golf balls. All the contests were won by out-of-town officials except the one captured by William Bayers of Ewing Park.

The affair concluded with a delicious banquet served in the main dining room, and various card games in the evening.

The associate members prize was won by W. E. Bayers of Ellwood City. The Class B prize went to G. G. Goe of Pittsburgh. Prizes were also won by Messrs. King, Mehler, Kannerer and Wardwell of Pittsburgh.

Wampum Man Has Accident Here Friday Evening

ELLWOOD CITY, June 11.—Clarence Staph of Wampum, while driving a sedan on Wampum avenue Friday evening, is alleged to have collided with a car driven by Mr. Mohr also of Wampum. The accident took place on Wampum avenue, and it is stated that the sedan was traveling at a sufficient rate of speed to knock the smaller car off the street. Mr. Mohr's three children were with him, and one son, John was seriously injured it was stated.

The boy is now in the local hospital, and according to a report from the doctor in charge, is resting comfortably.

The driver of the sedan, Mr. Staph, was taken into custody, by the local police, and released on $1500 bail pending a hearing later.

July 2 Is Last Day To Transfer War Insurance

Harry M. Long, commander of the New Castle post of the American legion wishes to call to the attention of all ex-service men that July 2 is the last date whereby war-risk insurance may be transferred to policies of the old line type.

Mr. Long says that the legion have had a great amount of influence in having the time extended from last year and that he would not like to see any one lose the chance to make this transfer. But July 2 is positively the latest date at which such transfer may be made.

The officers of the local post will be glad to give any information or assistance they can in helping the men secure this transfer. Commander Harry M. Long is now located on the second floor of the Johnston building.

Timely Hints
1. The Gulbransen Registering Piano is wonderfully easy to play.
2. The music rests me and brings reverie and relaxation.
3. Its ease of pedaling permits me to forget the pedals and enjoy the music when I play.
4. It is easy to play with expression, for the expression control is mainly in the pedals.
5. A Gulbransen in my home will save me the effort of dressing and going out when I want to hear good music.
6. A little music after dinner makes me sleep soundly.
7. The Gulbransen pedals have that firm, easy, just-right feel; I can operate them for hours without tiring.
8. I won't have to strain my voice; the Transposing Device will enable me to play in any suitable key.
9. Singing with the Gulbransen will make me breathe deeply, quiet my nerves, and help break my worry habit.
10. I can sit in an easy chair and play the Gulbransen.

Educational World Focuses Attention On Local Schools

New Castle has been brought before the educators of the United States and many foreign countries in a very vivid way by the distribution of City School Leaflet No. 24 concerning the organization and business methods of the school board of New Castle, which has been published by the United States Bureau of Education.

This leaflet is one of 12 pages and deals exclusively with the reorganization of the administrative procedure of the schools of New Castle, Pa. These bulletins are sent to every school superintendent in America and to every country in the world.

Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of the New Castle schools, says that he has received communications and inquiries from many eminent educators of the country. Educational magazines in all parts of the country are making favorable comments upon the progressive action of the New Castle board.

The leaflet was prepared by the chief of city schools division of the United States Bureau of Education, W. S. Deffenbaugh, after a visit of several days to New Castle last winter.

In the report he tells of how the board of directors of the schools is organized in a way similar to the board of directors of other businesses, in which all the details are not gone over by the board, but are worked out by the superintendent and business manager and reported to the board for approval.

The report recommends the abolishing of standing committees, but the entire board acts as a committee, thus abolishing the duplications of reports, etc.

The second part of the leaflet tells the result of the report, showing the details of the reorganization of the New Castle board, showing the definite duties of the superintendent, business manager and superintendent of grounds and buildings.

Final meeting of the general and various class and other committees of the New Castle High School Alumni Association, for the purpose of preparing and completing plans for the annual reunion of all former high school students at Cascade Park on Friday, June 17, will be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A.

At this time all details for the big affair at Cascade Park will be completed and class committees will report how many may be expected at the picnic grove.

There will be the regular annual competition among the classes for the attendance cup, which was won last year by the class of 1913, and which class will seek to retain it.

There will be the usual big dance after the picnic dinner and business meeting in the grove. The Fun House and Gorge Route will be the center of attraction for a great majority of the former high school students for the reason, that all those who attend the picnic dinner in the grove will receive tickets provided through the efforts of the general committee.

Members of this year's graduating class will be guests of the association at the dance and efforts are being made to have a hundred percent attendance of the latest members of the association.

Boy Scout News

TROOP 14.

The Y. W. C. A. Troop 14 met at the regular meeting place last night. The meeting was opened by Scoutmaster Fred Wilkes. Four new boys were added to the scouts, Rufus Gee, Joseph Moore, Juniper Doster and Robert Davis.

The patrol leaders reviewed the patrols and then Scoutmaster Wilkes examined each patrol and found them satisfactory.

Troop 14 is just recovering from its great program at the Union Baptist church Thursday evening. Tickets are now on sale for the three act comedy that is to be given by the members of this troop. This show will be held June 28.

After the formal closing the boys were dismissed at 9:30 o'clock.

TROOP 5.

The Elks Scouts held their regular weekly meeting Wednesday evening June 8. A large number of scouts were present also two visitors. Scoutmaster R. F. Davis was in charge of the meeting.

Very important scout subjects were discussed and action was taken on some points.

At the close of the business meeting a good feed was served by the Elks club. The meeting was adjourned by singing taps.

Scribe, Jack Griffiths.

OVERNIGHT HIKE.

Graduates of the Soutleaders Training school will hold an overnight hike this evening at the Scout camp. It will last until tomorrow noon and will be under the leadership of J. Lee Calahan Scout executive.

Secretary Jordan To Preach At Mercer

MERCER, Pa., June 11.—Secretary of Agriculture Charles G. Jordan will preach at the hour of morning and evening worship in the Second Presbyterian church on the date of June 19th, is the announcement of today of church officers. Secretary Jordan, of whom it will be remembered is a successful evangelist, is well known in Mercer, due to the close proximity of the home of the secretary at Volant.

He will be made very welcome by his Mercer friends during his stay. On next Sunday evening in the Methodist church will be preached the special sermon to members of the I. O. O. F. of Mercer, who are requested to gather at the lodge hall to march to the church.

The sermon will be preached by the church pastor, Rev. R. A. Thompson. The four United Presbyterian churches of the town will unite in a service at the Second United Presbyterian church at this time, when a special plea will be made for relief of the A. M. E. Zion church of Mercer.

Scouts Take Part In Camporee Tests

Scout Patrol Being Seltected To Take Part In State Meet

Nearly 100 Scouts, from every district in Lawrence county, arrived at camp John M. Phillips on Friday evening for the annual Lawrence County Camporee, held for the purpose of selecting the scout patrol, which will represent this county at Greensburg, Pa., in the All Western Pennsylvania Camporee.

This is the regional Camporee which will determine the Western Pennsylvania championship.

The Camporee is the camping contest which is held each year before the opening of camping season. It shows the progress made during the year in the Lawrence county scout movement. Scouts vieing for honors are requested to erect their own pup tents, cook their own food, erect a camp kitchen, which will pass inspection, and demonstrate their ability in the use of the ax and other tools used in scouting.

Scouts attending the annual Camporee, at the John M. Phillips camp withstood a severe test of their scouting ability, in the Friday evening rain storm. Most of the boys succeeded in pitching their pup tents before the storm broke, but they had not completed the ditches around the tents, when the storm drove them to shelter. The boys were forced to wait until the storm had ceased before they could continue the preparation of the evening meal.

In the preparation of the meal came the test of real scouting. All the wood was wet, and it was necessary to build a fire and cook meat and camp stew or hunter stew, in order to comply with the rules of the contest. These rules are not flexible. They must be carried out regardless of the weather conditions. Every scout came through with a cooked meal consisting of steak, fish or ham, and a camp stew.

The Camporee contest is being judged by Malcolm Hassel, assistant Scout Executive of Mercer county, and Ed Lucas of Sharon.

All scouts are in charge of Lawrence county Scout Eexecutive J. Lee Calahan, and Camp Director C .R. Knallay.

All the scouts reported that they were ready for the rest of the contest, when they were awakened this morning at 6 o'clock. They slept exceptionally well.

Chamberlin-Levine Visit Potsdam Today

(International News Service)

POTSDAM, June 11.—Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine were today welcomed to Potsdam, the home of German aristocracy.

The two fliers arrived on a yacht escorted by a half dozen other craft.

Landing at the Potsdam Stadium the two fliers were given a huge ovation and were welcomed by the mayor.

Even excuses made to order are not always satisfactory.

Five Fire Companies Called Into Action

Two alarms of fire Friday afternoon at about the same time called five companies into action, although neither of the fires proved of a dangerous character or resulted in any great loss.

The first alarm came in at about two o'clock from box 17. Central and No. 2 companies responded. The home of Edward Means, which is owned by Lucy Landrum, at 321 South Beaver street, was found to be on fire. Sparks from the chimney had set on fire the shingle roof. The loss was about $35.

At 2:10 p. m. an alarm from box 44 called the firemen to the Johnson Bronze Company plant on South Mill street. Owing to the fact that companies in the more distant districts had to respond to the alarm, as the others were in service elsewhere and did not arrive as soon as expected, a second alarm was sounded, bringing additional but unnecessary equipment to the scene.

Sparks had set on fire some oil-soaked lumber from the engine room stored in a frame building of the plant and owing to its proximity to a tank of oil was considered dangerous. The firemen soon had the fire out. The companies responding to this fire were Numbers three, four and five. The loss was slight.

Flight From Europe To U. S. Looked On As More Difficult

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

WASHINGTON, June 11.—There's only one original "Lone Eagle" Lindbergh.

But at that, Lindy's performance wasn't quite so completely perfect by itself as Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine made it by chasing right across the Atlantic after him.

That's the view of ex-Assistant Postmaster General Paul Henderson, retired patron saint of the air mail service and today's biggest man in the country's commercial aviation industry, who was here visiting his old boss, Postmaster General New, when Chamberlin and Levine landed in Germany.

As how?—you ask; why wasn't Lindy's flight, as an independent stunt, just as perfect as perfection could make it?

Oh, it was, it was—agrees Henderson.

But look at it like this:

Was what Lindy did a stunt? Or was it something more than a stunt? Was there any good luck or accident about it? Was it something Lindy himself couldn't repeat, maybe?

Even if he could, was it simply a record he had hung up, that nobody else could equal?

Or had he blazed the way for others?

Hard on his heels, along came Chamberlin and Levine and demonstrated that he'd not only done something; he'd also shown others how to do it.

Washington flyers like Gen. Patrick and Admiral Moffett, respectively of the army and navy air services and Bill MacCracken, of the commerce department's aviation division, indorse what Henderson says.

They class Lindbergh with Columbus, as discoverer of a second shore to the western ocean.

They put Chamberlin in the same pigeon-hole with such pioneer navigators as Cabot and Hudson, who opened up traffic between the hemispheres, as soon as Christopher had revealed a plurality of them to run ships between.

They hand a medal to Levine as the first trans-Atlantic aerial passenger, who sends back word of Pilsener in Berlin, as Sir Walter Raleigh found tobacco in Virginia.

Only for Chamberlin, Levine and others who will follow in his wake, Henderson and the rest argue that Lindy would be in the position of his Norse ancestor, Leif Ericson, who reached the new world all right but didn't bequeath it to anybody.

What the capital's aviation enthusiasts are especially interested in now is a successful non-stop flight from Europe to America.

Lindbergh is quoted as believing the westward trip more difficult than he found the voyage to the eastward. Making all due allowance for Charlie's modesty, experts think this may be true, because of weather conditions.

It's also taken into account that a flyer to the westward must more strictly mind the p's and q's of his course than one bound to the eastward.

From the North Cape to Gibraltar an airman can hardly fail to find a more or less hospitable spot for a landing on the thickly-settled European coast. On this side of the water he's likely to find himself in a howling wilderness anywhere above latitude 50, which is approximately in line with the southernmost tip of England.

So, the west-to-east problem having been solved, it's on the east-to-west trans-Atlantic aerial journey that the aviation profession has its attention fixed at present.

To Set Time For Chaplin Trial

LOS ANGELES, June 11—Presiding Judge Walton J. Wood of the Superior Court, was today in possession of a formal notice sent to him by attorneys for Lita Grey Chaplin requesting immediate trial of her suit for divorce against Charles Chaplin.

The notice will be acted on Wednesday, Judge Wood said. On that day he will set the date for the trial.

The answer to the commedian's cross complaint for divorce was still being held in abeyance today because of technicalities. Her attorneys said it would probably be filed early next week.

Bell Company Makes Record

Delivery Of 12,000 Telephone Books Is Made In Quick Order

Local office of the Bell Telephone Company made a record in the distribution of their June issue of the telephone directory Thursday. Nearly 12,000 copies of the directory were received from the printer at noon and by 8:00 o'clock in the evening they were all placed in the envelopes ready for the post office.

This accomplishment was made possible by having the envelopes all ready addressed with the address of each subscriber so that the largest part of the task was the putting of the thousands of directories into the envelopes and tying them in bundles.

A total of 9850 copies were delivered to the post office yesterday morning and 1427 delivered to subscribers with private exchanges so that by noon all copies were on their way to the subscribers or else already in their hands. Some of those on the city routes received their copy of the new directory yesterday afternoon but most of them may not be delivered until today. All rural subscribers should receive their copy today.

CROTON VIADUCT
New Castle, Pa.
June 9, 1927.

Dear Sirs:

A Viaduct at the top of Croton avenue, connecting Croton with Lincoln avenue, is not only wanted, but badly needed. It is the real solution of traffic congestion on Washington street. It will be a benefit to the entire city and county.

We are going to boost and vote for the County Commissioners who are in favor of the above project.

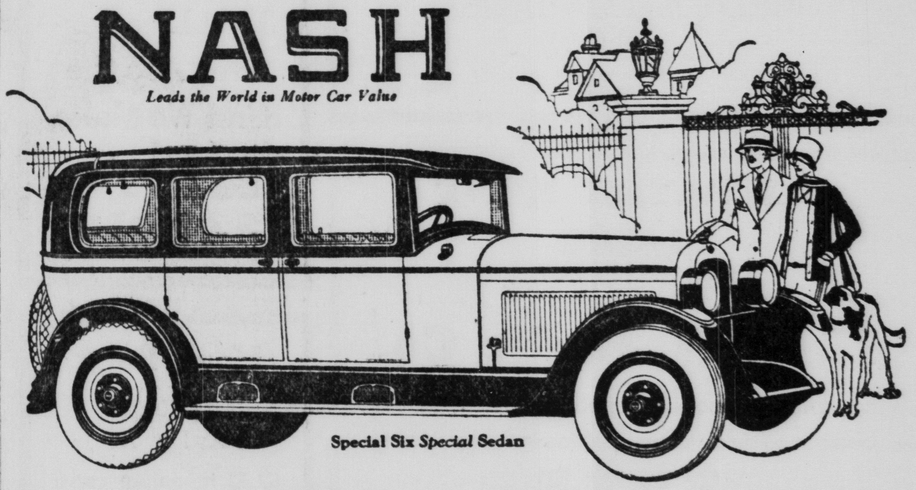

Mrs. Annie M. Williams,

NASH
Leads the World in Motor Car Value

Special Six Special Sedan

For the MOST in Value at $1485—
—Buy this Nash!

Search as you may among cars selling for or around this price. Nowhere else will $1485 buy such VALUE, such costly, LUXURIOUS quality.

NONE have the style. NONE have such high character in finish and fittings.

Step into the front seat and SEE the luxury. A costly walnut effect on the instrument board before you, on the door panels beside and behind you.

Choice Mohair Velvet upholstery all around, cushioned deeply on the seats, tailored smartly on the side walls.

And when it comes to performance, NOT ONE comes even NEAR this spirited Nash. There is absolutely no comparison!

Step on the starter, then on the accelerator—and GO! The soft even flow of power is due to the ultra-modern crankshaft. It has 7 main bearings—three or four MORE than most other cars. A bearing at every possible place to hold the shaft firm and rigid.

It has BIGGER bearings too—wider and stronger ones. MORE bearing surface than any other Six in its price class.

Try a long steep hill and feel the EXTRA power. Nash straight-line drive sends the power DIRECT from motor to rear axle—no energy wasted by angles or curves along its route.

Bring in your old car as part payment on a new Special Sedan. Among fine sedans at this price, there's nothing to equal this Nash. Come in—TODAY—and see.

The Nash price range on 26 different models extends from $865 to $2090, f. o. b. factory

Tuesday To Be Kiddies' Day

Annual Outing At Cascade Park For School Children Is Planned

SPORTS PROGRAM HAS BEEN SCHEDULED

Thousands of boys and girls of New Castle and all parts of Lawrence county are primed and set to go to the big annual celebration of the close of school and the opening of the summer vacation which will be held next Tuesday at Cascade Park.

It will be the annual Kiddies' day, a day especially set aside by the Cascade management following the close of school each year to give the youngsters full swing at the big recreation resort. This year the plans for the youngsters eclipse all predecessors. Rides and amusements will be open to the boys and girls under sixteen years at greatly reduced prices. Everything in the park from noon till 6 o'clock will be turned over especially for the amusement and delight of the boys and girls and throusands of homes in the city and vicinity will have happily tired youngsters to put to bed that night.

Manager Carl L. Shaner and the operators of the amusements at the park have been planning for this big day ever since the park opened. In addition to the regular amusements of the park, special programs of sports and games have been arranged for boys and for girls of every age. Fine prizes have been secured for the various events and runners and jumpers and others will receive awards for victory in all classes of sports.

To add to the fun there will be penny scrambles and candy showers for all the youngsters.

Jack Hulmes, noted swimmer and life saver, and Ed Fritz, sports editor of the New Castle News, will be in charge of the games and sports. That is assurance that the youngsters will all have a lively time.

The free playground and Kiddies' Midway will be at their best for this day of days. The trained attendants of the park, of course, will be in charge and direct the acticvities of the children so that all may have the best of times under the best of auspices.

OHIO FARMER TIES STONE TO HIS NECK, JUMPS IN CISTERN

GALLIPOLIS, O., June 11.—George Murray, 74, well-to-do Meigh county farmer, committed suicide early yesterday by jumping into a cistern and drowed at Bunker Hill.

He tied a stone to his neck before jumping into the cistern. His wife discovered the body. Murray suffered head injuries a few weeks ago when a team of horses ran away with him.

Just "Horse-Sense Enforcement" Says Prohibition Head

Seymour Lowman, New Assistant Secretary Of Treasury, Makes Statement

Lowman Will Take Over Reins Held By Andrews On August 1; Looks Over Machine

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 11.—"No fireworks—no sky rockets—just plain horse-sense enforcement."

That will be the policy of Seymour Lowman, former lieutenant governor of New York, who August 1 will become assistant secretary of the treasury, and generalissimo of the government's prohibition army and navy.

"Congress has enacted the law and laid down the policy," Lowman said. "The job of the treasury is to carry out the law. I am for law enforcement."

Lowman said that so far as he knew he would have no recommendations to make to congress relative to new legislation. A considerable number of bills, proposed by General Lincoln C. Andrews, the present dry chief, to strengthen prohibition enforcement, died in the 69th congress. It appears doubtful whether the treasury will seek reconsideration of these amendments to the prohibition and tariff laws.

Inspects Machine Today

The new dry chief took his first look at the treasury's prohibition machine Friday after a long conference with under secretary Ogden L. Mills, and Dr. James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner. It is said to have been agreed that Doran virtually would have entire charge of enforcement, in contrast with the policy of General Andrews who until a few weeks ago was dry chief in fact as well as name.

Lowman will spend most of his time prior to August 1 in studying the present prohibition set-up. He will meet the district administrators here in July.

The question of granting permits to distilleries for the resumption of medicinal whiskey production is being given consideration by Lowman and Doran. Both Secretary Mellon and General Andrews have taken the position that it will be necessary to resume manufacture during the present year, as a treasury survey disclosed that the medical spirits supply is about exhausted.

Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, however has made a public protest against granting of permits holding that the supply is adequate.

Lowman, a reputed ultra-dry, indicated that he would make no decision on the question until he officially takes office.

Military Company To Be Represented

K. Company, Sons Of Union Veterans, Will Send Group To Uniontown

K Company, Sons of Union Veterans, will be represented at the annual encampment of the G. A. R. and affiliated organizations at Uniontown next week, by a considerable group of members. They will leave Tuesday by automobile and participate in the Military activities of the encampment. Among those who will attend are Captain Walter Cross, Herman Gilbert, Andrew Cross, Edward Cross, Frank and Clarence Grannis, Charles Schetrom, Wilber Bates, Everett and George Rick, Frank Hill and W. W. Stevenson.

French Aroused Over Paris Divorce System

PARIS, June 11.—Declaring that the French people are becoming aroused against the Paris divorce system and the manner in which foreigners are taking advantage of it, Le Journal today predicted that a divorce will be refused Jack Pickford and Marilyn Miller if they seek it in Paris.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Following center of storm wave centering on June 9, a decided drop in average temperatures is expected to take place in central and northern North America east of Rockies and in central and eastern Europe; west of Rockies, a general rise in average temperatures is expected during this period; in cotton belt of North America, a moderate drop in average temperatures is expected during this period. Storm force during storm period centering on June 9 was expected to be of severe intensity; this storm wave, with the southern cool wave and northern cold wave that is expected to follow storm center, will cause above normal precipitation generally over North American continent; least precipitation expected on eastern slopes, and land approaching those slopes and in section 9.

A storm wave of severe intensity is expected to cross continent during week centering on June 15; this storm center will occur during a period of below normal temperatures and will be followed by a sharp cool wave generally over the continent; period of June 9 to 20 is expected to average below normal temperatures and above normal precipitation except in section 9, west part of 3 and 5 and east part of 6, where above normal temperatures and below normal precipitation is expected.

Crop Conditions and Prospects

The 1927 crop season to date has been an unusual one in many respects. Cool, wet averages in spring wheat and corn belts have held back seeding; floods in southern and east-central great central valleys have made normal yields of cotton and spring grains almost impossible in those sections; two months of exceptionally dry weather in western plains and southern Atlantic coast sections has placed those sections in a position where very favorable cropweather would be necessary during balance of season to make paying yields. The Free Press of Winnipeg calls attention to the fact that bumper Canadian wheat yield of 1915 was made during a season of frequent and severe sold waves and frosts; the Free Press also states that heat is needed for the next month, 30 days, if a normal wheat yield is to be had in the Prairie Provinces; these are two very important points at this stage of the season. Wheat is a cold weather plant and is damaged by cold and frosts only during the few days of critical time of its life, chiefly during the bloom stage. Corn and cotton, on the other hand, are hot weather plants, but corn cannot go without water for so long a period as cotton can. Two weeks ending June 9 were expected to be a period of generally favorable crop weather; ten day period following June 9 does not look so good. Practically all crops of the North American continent are now in need of a period of hot weather; I do not see sufficient of this heat in the near future; these bulletins are intended to give you a general idea of expected crop weather; if you do not see what you want in them, write me direct, 32 T. Street, N. E. Washington, D. C.

To Fly From England, Australia New Goal

Four Planes Soon To Start On Flight By Way Of India And Singapore

LONDON, June 11—Four British flying boats will soon start on a flight from England to Australia by way of Singapore, under the command of group Capt. Henry Cave-Browne-Cave of the Royal Air Force, with squadron leader G. E. Livock second in command.

The route will be to India by way of the Mediterranean, to Singapore, the Dutch Indies, and then around the Australian seaboard. The latter part of its flight will be in conjunction with the Royal Australian Air Force.

The flying boats now being fitted with Napier-Lion 450 horse-power engines, are of the new metal hull type, with ample space for a navagator's chart table and a wireless operator's section. Control and gunnery cockpits will be a feature of the machines, and they will contain collapsible bunks so the crew can sleep aboard.

It is likely the flying boats will eventually be stationed ot Singapore to work with the new naval base there.

Glimpses Of Nature

By OWEN PENFIELD FOX.

Now that summer time is with us and Mother Nature is at her best, let us try and spend some of our time in the open. How long is it since you have walked the winding path through some friendy woods? Or since you tread the downy carpet spread of pine? Or stood in the cool among the big trees of the forest?

Can you recall green meadows with their lazy grasses nodding in shadows on rippling waters cast by the summer sun?

When have you stood on a high knoll, with the blue sky above you, and with head lifted high breathed pure life-giving air?

A great Creator has given us all these great treasures, the Earth on which we stand, the Blue Sky above, the Sun and Waters. So in these beautiful days of Summer pause and reflect that these bountiful gifts bring to us, Health, Life and Happiness.

CHEVROLET

WHY Chevrolet can offer such marvelously fine cars at such remarkably low prices!

Only when you know the facts about the Chevrolet Motor Company is it possible to understand how Chevrolet can offer such marvelously fine cars at such remarkable prices.

A unit of the General Motors Corporation, the Chevrolet Motor Company is backed by the vast resources and tremendous purchasing power of this mammoth organization—by the greatest automotive research laboratories in the world—by the greatest outdoor automobile proving ground ever created—and by the most famous engineering staff in the history of the automotive industry. The twelve great Chevrolet factories are equipped with the most modern machinery known to engineering science, performing every manufacturing operation with maximum efficiency—while tremendous volume production makes possible enormous savings, both in the purchase of raw materials and in the manufacturing processes.

Come to our showroom and see the Chevrolet models—and then you will know why thousands of buyers are selecting Chevrolet each day!

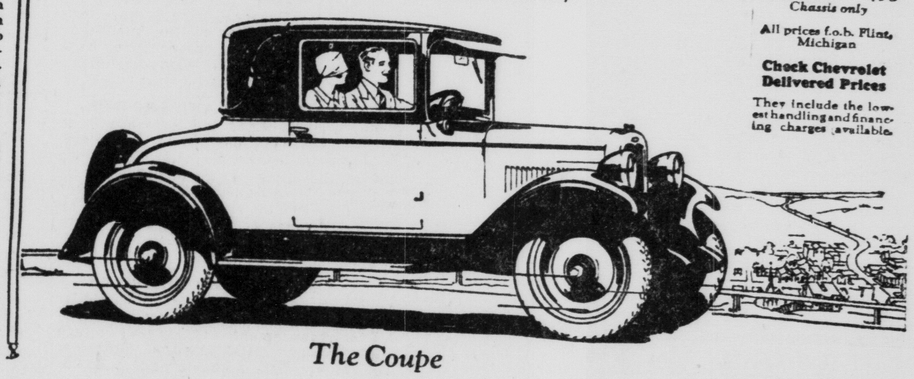

General Motors
The Chevrolet Motor Company is a unit of the General Motors Corporation—the greatest automotive organization in the world. The vast resources and engineering facilities of this organization are largely responsible for Chevrolet's matchless value.

Research Laboratories
A technical staff, representing every science related to the design and construction of motor vehicles, is continually testing and experimenting in the General Motors research laboratories—in an endeavor to improve the quality of Chevrolet cars.

Proving Ground
The General Motors Proving Ground, comprising a tract of 1145 acres, is located at Milford, Michigan — forty miles northwest of Detroit. Fleets of Chevrolet cars are under constant test at the Proving Ground—driven day and night under every conceivable condition of road and load.

12 Great Factories
Chevrolet cars are manufactured in 12 great factories, located at strategic shipping points throughout the country. Every factory is equipped with the most modern machinery known to engineering science—performing every manufacturing operation with maximum efficiency.

Volume Production
Chevrolet is building cars at the rate of 4,500 a day! Because of this enormous production, Chevrolet is able to purchase materials in tremendous quantities—at the lowest prices available. And these savings are passed on to the purchasers of Chevrolet cars in the form of increased quality and value.

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Florence Smith Vincent

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

For just a moment Peter glared at the Mole. Then he began to scold.

"You hateful, cruel thing!" stormed he. "Who would ever think—to look at your soft, furry body—that you were as bloodthirsty as all that! Why you appear as meek as can be—if I hadn't seen you whip the life right out of your fellow Moles I should never in the world believe that you would hurt a fly! Had even guessed that you were so revengeful I would have tried harder to rescue him. Poor old Mike!"

For a wonder, Matty Mole kept his temper and answered the boy quite calmly.

"Now, see here, young Two-Legs," said he, "suppose you stop finding fault with me. I only did what every single one of my race would have done in my place. I shouldn't be a bit surprised if I know a good deal more about your business than you do about mine, and I have heard that when one Human does his best to hurt another and becomes a dangerour character to allow at large he is shut up all by himself where he can do no harm and given only a little to eat and drink. Now that would be a dreadful thing to do to a Mole. He would slowly starve to death if he didn't die of lonesomeness. It is far less cruel to make an end of a Mole at once than to take away his freedom. So when a Mole is naughty and must be punished that is what happens to him—he loses his life. He can't make any more trouble for other folks and he serves as a fine example to the rest of us. For a time at least we mind our own business, the only sure way to keep out of difficulty."

Peter was about to make some reply when it became evident that Matty Mole considered the matter settled. Turning right about, he commenced to nose the earth and the boy knew that he must forget the fight if he were going to remain friendly with the winner. He decided not to say another word about it.

"Say, Matty, what are you doing now? Not getting ready to dig under, are you?"

Matty stopped long enough to nod his head, and as he had no neck at all his whole fat body wiggled in assent.

"Guessed right the first time," chuckled he. "The daylight is beginning to make me dizzy, and now that I have succeeded in doing just exactly what I came to the surface for I am going back under ground. How would you like to come under ground with me?"

"How would I like to? I'd love it!" Peter clapped his hands. Then he noticed that the Mole had crawled up close to him and seemed to be staring up at him with his almost sightless eyes.

"But you are too big, Boy," said he. "Oh, I am so disappointed. I would have made quite a name for myself by bringing such a strange guest into the Molehill. Tch, tch, tch, what a pity."

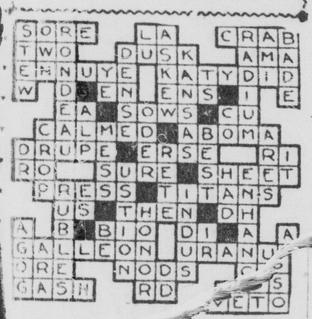

"Don't worry about that, Mole," laughed the boy. Then he said the magic words, "Watch! Listen!" In the twinkling of an eye he was no larger than his furry friend.

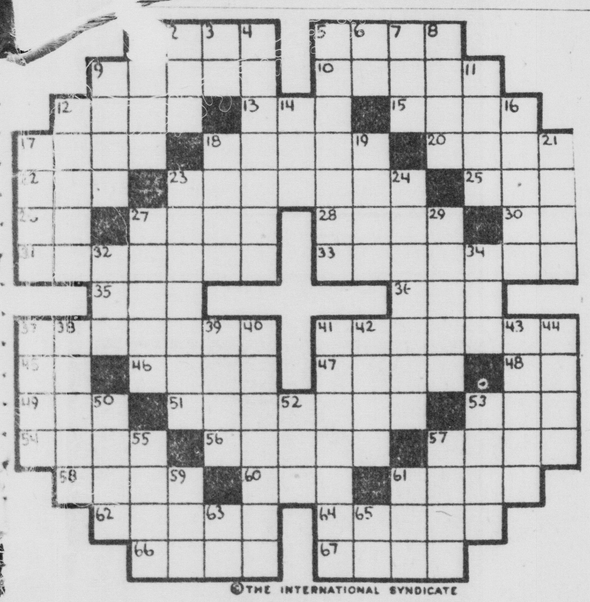

"Now I am small enough to go anywhere that you can. Lead on, Matty," cried he.

Next: "Going Down!"

SIXTEEN DRIVERS START IN ALTOONA AUTO RACE

Record Crowd To Witness Event

Leon Duray, In Miller Special, Will Have Pole Position Today

PURSE TOTALS OVER $20,000

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa., June 11.—A record crowd of automobile racing fans was expected to see the field of 16 racing cars get under way here today in the massive wooden bowl of the Altoona speedway association for the annual 200 mile championship prize. A purse totalled $20,000 with an individual prize of $7,000 to the winner. Preliminary to the main event, a race of stock cars will be staged on the boards with a purse of $5,000 to the winner.

Leon Duray, in a Miller front drive racer, will lead the race starters in the main event. His qualifying record of 136 miles per hour established a new lap record and by virtue of this, he was allowed the pole position.

Drivers who qualified for the race were Leon Duray, Miller front drive; Cliff Woodbury, Boyle valve; Peter DePaolo, Perfect Circle; Harry Hartz; Harry Miller, front drive Miller; Tony Gulotta, Miller front drive; Dave Lewis, front drive Miller; Dave Evans, front drive Miller; Peter Kreis, Cooper front drive; Al Melcher, Miller; Frank Elliot, Miller; Bennie Hill, Cooper front drive; Earl Devore, Miller front drive and Eddie Hearne.

George Souders, Dusenberg, winner of the Indianapolis Memorial Day race and Frank Lockhard, Miller front drive, are among the drivers who have failed to qualify.

Hillsville Trims Edenburg 1 To 0

Augostine Hurls One-Hit Game As Hillsville Topples Edenburg

Hillsville nosed out the Edenburg team 1 to 0, in a postponed Twilight League game played at Hillsville on Friday night. This game was postponed on account of rain, and two previous attempts to settle the argument led to deadlocks. Rain interfered again last night, but Hillsville snatched the contest.

Augostine on the knoll for the Hillsville boys pitched a fine game, allowing but one hit and fanning seven of the opposing batsmen. Coates opposed Augostine and was found for three hits.

Pepe was responsible for the winning run, by driving Riley over the plate with a single, in the third inning. Edenburg could not solve the tricky delivery of Augostine.

SOME UNITED STATES OPEN HISTORY — BY FEG MURRAY

Bobby Jones, in describing his experiences in his first United States open championship at the Inverness Club in 1920, writes, in a recent issue of a weekly magazine, that he was "hypnotized" by the tremendous finish, wherein five players had a chance to win right up to the seventy-second green, and that "I concluded right there that the open championship was the thing. It still is my idea of a tournament."

The efforts and achievements of the redoubtable Bobby in the U. S. open championship will require a special cartoon and story, so let us look as some of the other winners (yes, there have been other winners, though that may be news to some who have only followed golf in the last year or so) with especial emphasis on the "pre-Jones" era.

Willie Dunn won a so-called national open tournament open championship at the St. Andrews Golf Club, Mt. Hope, N. Y. back in 1894, two up from W. Campbell, but the first real tournament at stroke competition was held the following year at Newport, and Horace Rawlins, a gent with a funny cap, a brushy mustache, and long pants, won by two strokes from the same Willie Dunn, shooting 173 for thirty six holes. Imagine where 173 would get you in a U. S. open nowadays!

Skip now to 1900, to the Chicago Golf Club links at Wheaton, Illinois, the town later made famous by a red-headed iceman. The tournament that year was graced by the presence of the two famous Britishers, Harry Vardon and J. H. Taylor. At one hole Vardon made the mistake of regarding a six-inch put with such indifference that in trying to knock it gaily into the hole he missed the ball entirely and struck his club into the ground! But he won the tournament anyway, with Taylor second.

Like the well-known pyorrhea ad, Willie Anderson took four out of the next five tournaments. The boys at that time had been playing seventy-two holes since 1898, and in 1906 Aleck Smith made the first score of less than 300, with a 295. George Sargent reduced this to 290 in 1909, Hagen tied it in 1914, and two years later, Chick Evans made the lowest score on record in the U. S. open with a 286, two under even fours for the four rounds! Jack McDermott, of Atlantic City, won the title in 1911 and 1912, being the first American-born player to win and the last player to win twice in succession.

The "piece de resistance" of all the U. S. open championships was Francis Ouimet's tie with the two famous English pros, Harry Vardon and Ted Ray, in 1913 at Brookline, and his subsequent win in the play-off. Ouimet was a 19-year-old amateur player from Woodland, Mass., and his startling victory gave golf as great an impetus in America as the deeds of the fiery McLoughlin gave to tennis about the same time. Both were "torch-bearers" in sports that had been regarded up to that time as more or less for the rich and for the elderly folk.

Feg Murray Says—

The number of prominent colleges and universities all over the country who have adopted the Washington system of rowing has given credence to the story that when the Father of Our Country crossed the Delaware, he did so in an eight-oared shell.

Pirates Hammer Gotham Giants

Paul Waner Raps Out Two Doubles And A Triple

HILL PITCHES STEADY GAME

PITTSBURGH, June 11.—The Pirates leaped upon the Giants yesterday and slammed the ball to all corners of the lot and walked out of the ball park victors, 13 to 4.

The Pirates had the delectable lot of being able to pound the Giant hurlers, Clarkson, Henry and Greenfield for 17 hits while Hill pitched for the Pirates and allowed only seven safe blows.

One of the features of the day was the clouting of Paul Waner. He banged out two doubles and added to this by a triple, thus turning in three hits of five times at bat.

New York and the Pirates struggled along until the fifth with the Pirates leading three to two but the fireworks started in the fifth and Henry relieved Clarkson but the Pirates scored seven runs before the side was retired.

The Giants put two runners across the pan in the sixth and Henry gave way to Greenfield as the Pittsburgh sluggers continued to hit and chased three runs across the plate by the end of the eighth and they didn't bat in the ninth.

Athletics Are Setting Pace

Connie Mack's Boys Have Won Five Straight Games; Team Play Improves

PIRATES WALLOP GIANTS, 13 TO 4

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 11.—The Philadelphia Athletics, who started the season like champions, only to fall into a disastrous slump, are again making a strong bid for the American League pennant. A new line-up worked wonders, and to date they have won five straight.

Connie Mack benched Branom, his millionaire first baseman, for playing ten-cent ball, and gave the job to Fox, a catcher. Old Buck Wheat got Lamar's job in left field; Jimmy Dykes replaced Hale at third, and Cy Perkins was given more work behind the bat. Ty Cobb, whose homer enabled the team to trim the Browns yesterday, 4 to 3, is the spark plug of the outfield, and Eddie Collins has improved his batting average considerably.

The race tightened a bit when the White Sox downed the Yankees, 4 to 2, Ted Lyons winning his eighth straight victory.

Detroit put on another big rally, scoring five runs in the 12th, and routed the Red Sox, 10 to 5. The Tigers jumped all the way to fifth place and have won three games in succession for the first time this season.

Speaker's double and Reeves' single in the 13th enabled Washington to nose out Cleveland, 6 to 5.

Donie Bush, manager of the Pirates, is thinking of dragging all of his unmarried players to the altar. His outfielder, Paul Waner, shortly before getting married last night, made three hits and led the Pirates to a 13 to 4 victory over the Giants.

The Cubs took another close one from Brooklyn, winning in the 12th, 5 to 4. Flowers, Brooklyn shortstop, was benched.

The astounding Braves polished off the Cardinals again in the 10th, 11 to 8, after Frisch's homer with two on had tied the score in the ninth.

Cincinnati actually won a series, plastering the Phillies, 9 to 3. The Phils dropped to seventh place,

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Considering their last performances only, Jack Sharkey seems to be a more logical opponent for Gene Tunney than does Jack Dempsey, the king Tunney dethroned.

There can be no question about this if one starts with the promise that Dempsey gave the best he had and ever will have again, on that momentus night in Philadelphia.

The big punch was Dempsey's greatest asset in his heyday.

But Sharkey, in beating Jimmy Maloney, showed a stiffer punch than did Jack against the marine.

Dempsey's famous shift proved no mystery at all to Gene—who peppered him with his left repeatedly—as Dempsey's puffed face suggested for days. Sharkey against Maloney, showed more defensive skill.

One who fails to enthuse over Tunney's victory over Dempsey points out early in any discussion that the latter fought a man deprived of his greatest asset. In Sharkey Tunney would meet a man with a punch more potent than Dempsey had that night—whether or not he was at his best.

As far as size is concerned Sharkey, Dempsey and Tunney are of about the same type and build. Dempsey is six feet one and one-half inches tall. Sharkey is half an inch over the six foot mark and Tunney is between the two. All three weigh within five or six pounds of the other—between 190 and 200 pounds.

Sharkey's ardent admirers say that Tunney has yet to fight a man who will stand toe to toe with him as Sharkey will—with the hitting power Sharkey has.

This may be true. On the other hand, however, Tunney climbed into the ring against the man reputed to be the greatest hitter in the modern era at least and pecked away at him with the confidence of a Lindbergh from the tap of the first bell. Just what effect the confidence of the champion and that same jabbing left will have on Sharkey's chances is problemetical, of course.

One thing must be said of Sharkey. He has shoved Dempsey a bit in the background—and by the same token has forced Dempsey to act one way or the other. Jack cannot afford to dilly-dally over his plans until Rickard decides to go through with the Tunney-Sharkey fight. Sharkey is popular enough right now to draw a big gate for Rickard.

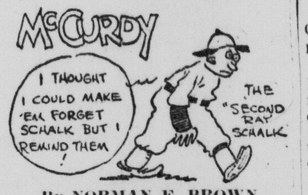

Dempsey's hope for a return to public favor should now lean toward a battle with Sharkey—risking all on waylaying the challenger.

Hamilton stood for the exploiters, Jefferson for the exploited, and apparently all of us are just born to take the side we do.

HALL of FAME

H. McCURDY

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Nominating YOUNG MR. McCURDY

Because he is the "man behind the plate" for Thomas, Lyons and Blankenship, the pitchers carrying the White Sox along this year.

Because he is given much of the credit for their and the team's showing.

Because his work proves Ray Schalk a shrewd judge of catchers as well as catching.

Because his success these days gives him the last laugh over St. Louis fans, who gave him the ha, ha, when, as a college rookie, he tried to catch high fouls when tried out by the Browns a few years ago.

And because he seems to have won the distinction of being Ray Schalk's successor—the real "second Ray Schalk." Which settles that.

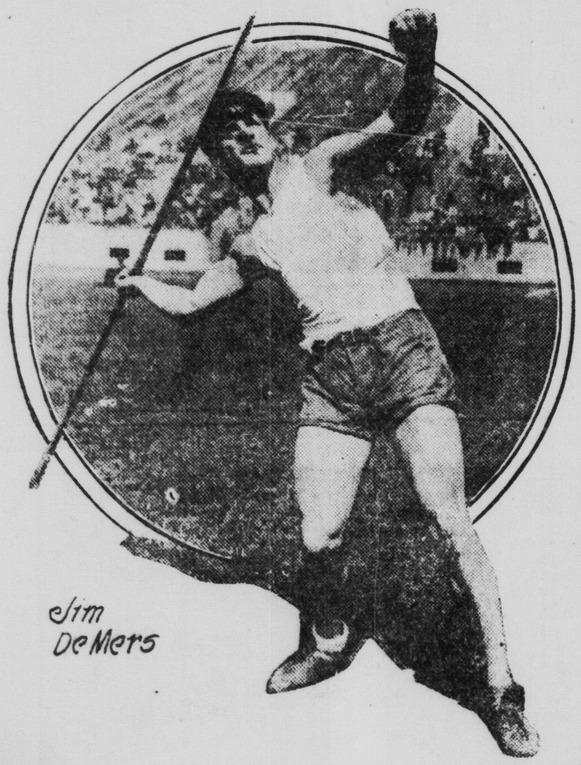

Church League Games Called

Procession Up Potomac River Is Spectacular

Homecoming Reception To Col. Lindbergh Epochal In World History

WARSHIP AND PLANES IN ESCORT

Entire Nation Is Acclaiming Youthful Hero Of Dash To Paris

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD NAVAL AIR CONVOY WITH CRUISER MEMPHIS—(By radio) June 11.—Smiling "Slim" Lindbergh slid into the historic Potomac early this morning at the head of the most spectacular and colorful homecoming procession the world has ever known.

The center of a majestic naval convoy, with almost a thousand men piloting him, and a roaring fleet of a hundred planes circling the vessel in faultless formation, the young man everybody knows steamed out of Chesapeake Bay before breakfast in a procession such as no other hero has known. Ideal weather prevailed.

To Write Page in History

Sixteen hours inside of the Virginia Capes, where he was met yesterday afternoon by half a dozen navy destroyers and 60 army and navy planes, America's youngest colonel was already aware as the Memphis nosed into the Potomac that the nation's welcome at Washington would write a lasting page in history.

Not since the swift greyhound Memphis passed the capes has Lindy been allowed to forget that an entire nation acclaims him for his epochal flight.

"Welcome Home", wigwagged in the queer Esperanto of the sea from the destroyer Goff greeted the daring young eagle just as he sighted his native shores off Cape Henry.

Within half an hour a convoy of six destroyers, in battle formation, pulled over the horizon as they deployed to flank the Memphis on either side, two glistening silver flashes soared out of the haze of the Atlantic to anchor their shadows squarely midships on the beseiged Memphis.

Planes Swoop Down

Before Lindy, on the bridge of the Memphis with Vice Admiral Burrage, had signaled the two blimps, a roaring formation of 26 army planes from Langley field swooped down the bay like a flock of kingbirds after a hawk.

Flying at about 1,500 feet in a compact V, the planes passed the point of their design squarely over the center of the Memphis from bow to stern. Almost simultaneously the first squadron of 16 naval sea planes from the Hampton Roads scouting base swept into the stirring picture 2,000 feet above the calm sea. From Cape Henry, to the east, came the din which rolled down the bay from the greatest assemblage of planes in United States history.

Not until the distroyers were lost in the dusk to flyers less than a thousand feet up, did the last naval plane head westward over Willoughby Bay to the Hampton Roads hangars.

As quickly as they taxied into the runways they were made ready for today's convoy to Washington.

Because the skies over the capital will be crowded to the danger point as the Memphis steams up the Potomac, rigid Lindbergh day traffic regulations were promulgated this morning by the army, navy and postal air chiefs. Navy planes were assigned a lane at 2,500 feet altitude. Five hundred feet below the next strata was reserved for the maneuvers of the giant dirigible Los Angeles.

The next level was reserved for some 50 army planes and the thousand-foot level for the air mail planes. In a huge crate on the main deck of the Memphis, flanked by the two ship planes, "The Spirit of St. Louis" rides home under her master's watchful eye. Lindbergh plans to fly The St. Louis from Washington to New York Monday morning. It will be uncrated and assembled as soon as the Memphis docks at Washington. Later, if Lindbergh's wishes are carried out, he will fly the same plane from New York to St. Louis.

Tolerance is the feeling you have when you're too important to give a darn, or too unimportant to give a darn.—The Buffalo Evening News.

McCullough Is Out For Re-election As Co. Commissioner

Experience Gained In Conduct Of Office During Four Years Valuable Asset

It is understood that County Commissioner, T. J. McCullough, will be a candidate for re-election, on the Republican ticket, at the fall primary.

In nominating and electing Mr. McCullough to this office four years ago, the voters of the County recognized the large experience which he had had in the construction and maintenance of public highways, which constitutes one of the important duties of the office of a county commissioner. This previous experience, together with the experience gained during the past four years with this and the other duties of the office, would certainly be sufficient grounds upon which the Republican voters would again recognize with their approval, the long continued party usage in this office of re-electing for a second term.

Mr. McCullough has always been found attending to the duties of his office, with that promptness, attention and courtesy that characterizes him in private life.

Many large undertakings have been completed and others started by the County of Lawrence, during the last four years, and it would seem to be to the interest of the county, that the experience gained by Mr. McCullough in the last four years, should be capitalized by his return to this office for another term. This fact, together with the qualifications of the candidate, is a foundation upon which rests the well established party usage or renominating and re-electing a county commissioner for a second term.

New Wilmington-Mercer Dirt Road Is Being Oiled

New Wilmington-Mercer dirt road will be oiled by the State Department of Highways, the oiling to start the first of next week, according to announcement by District Engineer J. H. Robinson.

The macadam roads of Lawrence county have all been oiled and this portion of the dirt road is the first to be oiled this season. The road from New Wilmington to Mercer will be much used this summer on account of the Sharon-Mercer road being under construction. Therefore oiling of the road will not only keep down the dust but will preserve the road under the heavy traffic it is having.

For a few days, motorists may wish to take some other route to Mercer as the oiling process does not make the best kind of travel.

Grocers Defeat Star Juniors 8-7

The Marcella Grocers defeated the Colored Star Juniors, 8 to 7, in a thrilling game played on the B. & O. grounds on Thursday night. The game was decided in the final half of the ninth inning, when the Grocers tallied two runs.

The three DiMuccio boys divided pitching duties for the Grocers, with Cox and Baker opposing them. The Star Juniors secured but six hits off the three Grocerymen.

Recover Body Of Pittsburgh Flier Killed In Canada

Grappling Irons Used By Searchers Locate Body Of Millionaire Airman

(International News Service)

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que., June 11—The body of J. Dalzell McKee Pittsburgh millionaire aviator today had been recovered from the waters of Lake La Pache near Grand Mere, at the spot where the plane turned over and crashed yesterday.

A searching party working with grappling irons drew the body from the waters last night. An inquest will be held today at which it is believed officials will decide that McKee misjudged his altitude due to the shadows of the unusually tranquil lake.

He struck the water at a speed of approximately 90 miles an hour the hydroplane breaking in two. McKee's companion, Lieut. Harold G. Noag of Washington, D. C. was rescued as he clung to the floating wreckage. He was being treated for injuries suffered to his face and for severe shock at the Laurentian club at Lake La Pache.

Short Circuit In Bridge Lights

During the storm last night, the curb lighting system on the West Washington street bridge went out of order, a short circuit being the cause and one of the iron supports became highly charged with electricity. It was discovered by linemen of the P. & O. Electric company and was referred to City Electrician George Nickum, who corrected the trouble. It was feared that some pedestrian might come in contact with it and be seriously injured and a police officer was detailed to keep people away from the pole until the trouble could be located and remedied. It had the effect of putting out of service a number of the curb lights.

Boy Drowns In Sight Of Friends

(International News Service)

BRADFORD, Pa., June 11.—Seized suddenly with an attack of cramps while bathing with several companions here last night in Shale Brick Pond, Alphonso Suppa, eight-year-old son of Mrs. Chester Cocco, 11 North street, was drowned while his fear-stricken friends looked on.

The Suppa boy was swimming in mid-stream, his companions told Coroner H. Clay Heffner, and sank beneath the water level before aid could reach him. He was rushed to a local hospital where a pulmotor was placed on him in an attempt at resuscitation.

Oakland Six, $1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Delivered prices include minimum handling charges. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.

This is the six-cylinder Sport Cabriolet that has taken the nation by storm. But there's nothing strange in that. Its vivid beauty places it in the very front rank of America's smartest cars. And its famous six-cylinder engine provides all the spirit and dash and stamina that such a swanky type requires.

Never has Fisher craftsmanship found better expression than in the graceful, rakish body, with the soft unslatted top and its nickeled landau bars. Inside and out it literally teems with style and smartness.

Spanish leather upholstery inside the cab and in the spacious rumble seat as well. Appointments that are unobtrusively rich. And a truly arresting color scheme—Brevoort Green fenders, top and quarters; Cherokee Gray Duco on body and hood; orange striping for brilliant contrast.

Never in any low-priced six has the appeal of the intimate closed car type been so admirably expressed! Never has any six of the type provided such commanding value! For here are all the basic advantages of Pontiac quality, endurance and economy plus a smartness and style you cannot resist at a price that cannot be matched.

Announcement Made Of Juniors Eligible For Senatus Romanus

Senatus Romanus, an honorary Latin organization at the senior high school, has made formal announcement of those eligible to membership for next year by reason of their high standing in the honors examinations given at intervals during the month preceding the close of school. Certificates are now available at the office of the senior high school. Some of the students here listed already hold membership of a lower degree, others are eligible for the first time.

As a result of the series of four examinations given to Caesar students and a series of ten to Cicero students the honors earned are as follows:

Third year (Cicero): Summa Cum Laude, Mary McGeehan; Magna Cum Laude, Gertrude Potter; Cum Laude, Virginia Colley, Alene Hyde, Harold Sankey, Virginia Reeher, Harry Jermako.

Second year (Caesar): Summa Cum Laude, Genevra Hazen; Magna Cum Laude, Ellamee Johnson; Cum Laude, Edith Cleaveland, Norma Smith, John Campbell, John Di Carlo, John Karki, Jean Gealey, Margaret Hess, Louise Fink.

Although most students take their beginning Latin in the junior high schools, each year there is a large beginning class at the senior high school. Those who stood highest in this elementary Latin this year were in order of excellence: Francis Sage, Marian VanDyke, Margaret Komara, and Clarence McClintic.

Johnstown Woman Burns To Death

Aged Woman Preparing Dinner For Son Burned To Death As Clothes Ignite

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 11.—When her clothing ignited while preparing a meal for her son, Mrs. Martha Ellenberger, 81, was burned to death in her home here today before aid could reach her. The aged woman was alone at the time and was preparing dinner as was her usual custom. The son discovered the charred body on his return home from work.

Investigation showed Mrs. Ellenberger was removing a pan from the stove when her apron became ignited. Damage estimated at $150 was done to furniture and walls in the kitchen by the resulting flames. The fire, however, died out in a few minutes and firemen were not called, according to the county coroner.

Fliers Place Wreath Upon Tomb Of Ace

(International News Service)

BERLIN, June 11.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine today placed a wreath upon the grave of Capt. Von Richtohofen, Germany's great war "ace," and leader of the German flying squadron known as the "flying circus." The ceremony took place in Invalid cemetery.

The Americans were accompanied only by Col. Conger, military attache of the United States embassy and Ministerial Director Brandenburg, the federal chief of Germany's air traffic.

The wreath was tied with an American flag and a white ribbon marked "homage."

It is not too early to wish aloud for what you want Christmas.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

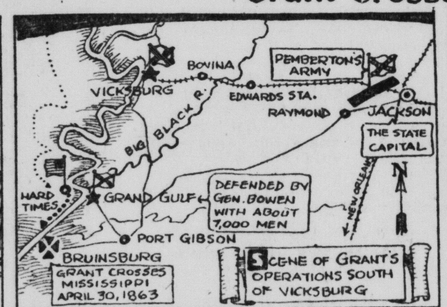

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

Grant Crosses the River.

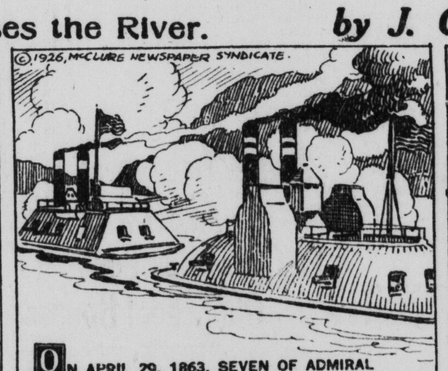

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

WHILE GRANT WAS MANOEUVERING HIS FORCES IN FRONT OF VICKSBURG, THE CONFEDERATE GENERAL PEMBERTON, WITH A SLIGHTLY SMALLER ARMY, WAS AT JACKSON, MISS., GUARDING THE REAR APPROACHES TO THE THREATENED CITY. PEMBERTON, THROUGH LACK OF CAVALRY FOR SCOUTING, WAS UNABLE TO FORETELL EXACTLY AT WHAT POINT THE NEXT FEDERAL ATTACK WOULD COME. BUT, ANTICIPATING A MOVEMENT DOWN THE RIVER, SENT GEN. BOWEN TO DEFEND GRAND GULF.

PEMBERTON'S ORDERS FROM PRESIDENT DAVIS WERE TO HOLD VICKSBURG AT ALL COSTS. ON THE OTHER HAND, LIEUT.-GEN. JOSEPH E. JOHNSTON (PEMBERTON'S SUPERIOR), WISHED TO UNITE ALL AVAILABLE CONFEDERATE TROOPS TO TAKE A VIGOROUS OFFENSIVE AGAINST GRANT, AND STARTED TOWARD JACKSON WITH 15,000 MEN TO JOIN FORCES WITH PEMBERTON'S ARMY.

ON APRIL 29, 1863, SEVEN OF ADMIRAL PORTER'S GUNBOATS BOMBARDED THE CONFEDERATE BATTERIES ON THE HIGH BLUFFS AT GRAND GULF, 50 MILES BELOW VICKSBURG, BUT ONLY SUCCEEDED IN SILENCING THE GUNS TEMPORARILY. THAT NIGHT, HOWEVER, THE UNION FLEET AND TRANSPORTS MADE A SUCCESSFUL DASH DOWN THE RIVER PAST THE FORTS.

THE FOLLOWING DAY, GRANT FERRIED A LARGE PART OF HIS ARMY ACROSS THE MISSISSI

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, June 11.—In the half session of the stock market preceding the double holiday today, the bulk of industrial stocks displayed a heavy and reactionary tone. Speculative interest was confined mostly to the professionals.

Special weakness was in evidence in the so-called oil lands stocks. Texas Land Trust dropped back to 29, two points below Friday's close. Transcontinental Oil was also on the selling counter.

Selling pressure on the speculative leaders, including General Motors, Reading, Baldwin and other well-known shares, was sufficient to depress prices a point or two. The "merger rails," Western Maryland, Wabash, and Missouri Pacific also sold off 2 to 3 points in a quiet market, in which absence of buying power was a more important factor than urgent liquidation. There were a few exceptions to the rule. American Can's new advance to 54 being the most important.

Speculative "evening up" was in evidence in the commodity market, though the Monday shut-down will not be on as large as in the security markets. The New York Cotton and Rubber Exchanges will close at noon, and the Produce Exchanges will be open all day. Corn sold fractionally higher, after Friday's heavy decline, and Cotton gained a few points.

Sharp declines in the pool stocks and speculative industrials took place near the close of the market. A 5-point drop in Pierce Arrow preferred to 61 followed rumors of the possible discontinuance of the 8 per cent dividen. A. M. Byers declined to 80, completing a loss of about 14 points from the high of the week.

Though the better grade of industrial and mercantile stocks displayed a firm tone in this period, there were no corresponding advances in the speculative favorites, and the market lost ground. Hudson Motors was a feature of the final period, with a sharp recovery to above 85.

To Open Bids For Old School Houses

Shenango township school board is holding a meeting at East New Castle this afternoon at which bids will be opened for school houses which the township will sell on account of the erection of the new consolidated school building.

The matter of transportation for pupils to the new consolidated building will aso come before the meeting. It is understood that the work will be let out by contract.

GUNS BOOM AND CROWDS CHEER

devil maneuvers by his brother flyers, and cheers, cheers, cheers.

Smiles At Welcome.

Bareheaded, his hair atousle over his forehead, but smiling almost incrediously at the welcome, the slim youth stood on the bridge during the slow process of warping the vessel into her dock. He appeared embarrassed as the salvos of cheers and applause reached him from the 2000 persons closely packed on the dock. His right hand, then his left, rose and fell automatically as he surveyed the scene. Vice Admiral Burrage stood on the bridge with him.

Beneath him on the deck were two enormous crates bearing his precious ship "The Spirit of St. Louis." A giant hoisting crane stood nearby ready to take the crates off the ship and rush them to Bolling Field for immediate assembly. He is going to fly that ship to another tremendous greeting in New York on Monday.

Even the clang of the gangplank going down did not move him to leave the bridge. He stood there apparently non-plussed as the crowd surged forward around the gangplank. He looked for all the world like a college youth, his hair blowing in the breeze, his demeanor one of apparent shyness. If he was embarrassed at the acclaim of Paris and London, he appeared doubly so when the acclaiming was being done by "home folks."

A thunderous cheer went up as the youth strode down the gangplank. Boats in the harbor, seeming to sense he was ashore, set off their sirens, automobiles in the streets outside the yard honked their horns, and the place was a bedlam. A surging crowd almost—but not quite—swept away the guarding Marines.

When the crowd started surging toward the gangplank, Lindbergh hurriedly left the bridge, shaking hands with ship's officers as he went below. Reaching the dock, he came to the rail and waved to the crowd.

By this time the Marines had succeeded in impressing upon the more impetuous that nobody was going aboard ahead of Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, and the crowd stopped short. The Marines cleared a pathway to the foot of the gangplank, and a White House automobile swept up to it. In it were his mother, accompanied by John Hays Hammond, the Washington philanthrophist who is chairman of the capital's reception committee.

A naval officer offered her his arm as she stepped from the machine.

Mother Greets Son

At the top of the plank, the officer gallantly stepped aside to allow Mrs. Lindbergh to be the first to step aboard. As she did so, her son hurriedly left the rail, and, crossing the deck, disappeared into a cabin. Capt. Lackey, commanding the Memphis, then escorted her to the cabin, and left her.

The meeting between mother and son was quickly over. Their faces wreathed in smiles, they emerged from the cabin to meet on the deck the secretaries of war and navy, the postmaster general and other officials.

Then the youth appeared to want to get ashore and he did so speedily. His foot struck American soil again at 11:55 a. m., within three minutes after his mother had crossed the gang plank.

Lindbergh shook hands with a score of people before the officers succeeded in clearing a path for him to the white house machine. His mother was close on his heels and they entered the car within a few minutes after landing. The guns of the Memphis boomed out in compliment to the Secretary of the Navy, which is an orthodox procedure but everybody thought it was for Lindbergh.

His nervousness appeared to increase as the bedlam continued, and as the crowd pressed more and more tightly about the machine. He rose from his seat in the open machine, waved his hand, flushed and then sat down again precipitately, as if fearful that he might say something.

John Hays Hammond got into the car at this moment, and the chauffeur shuffled his gears and moved off as quickly as he could without killing a lot of government rank.

The length of time it took to warp the Memphis into the dock—she only had a foot's clearance in the narrow Washington channel—somewhat disrupted the reception plans. Mrs. Lindbergh did not wait to have luncheon aboard, as planned, her son said he had eaten sandwiches at 10:30 so the luncheon went by the boards.

At a snail's pace, necessitated partly because of the physical impossibility of moving fast, and partly to give the patient thousands an opportunity for a good view of the boy, the White House automobile moved out of the great stone archway of the navy yard and into the southeastern stretch of Pennsylvania avenue. This part of the avenue is below the capitol, where the parade was scheduled to begin.

It was noted that Lindbergh did not appear in his new colonel's uniform, which was delivered to him by a destroyer off the Virginia Capes yesterday. It was a spick-and-span new outfit, all burnished up with the silver eagles that denote the colonelcy, but apparently the youth would have none of it. At least, he strode down the gangplank in a double-breasted civilian suit of blue.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

The Children's Party.

June is really a lovely month for a birthday child. You can play games out of doors and the lunch may often be eaten outside too. Plenty to eat and of a simple nature are the two rules to go by in preparing the children's refreshments. Sandwiches are easily handled by the little folks and as many varieties may be made as the hostess can devive. Whole wheat bread should be used for at least half of the sandwiches. Following is a simple menu which may be elaborated as one wishes.

Peanut Butter Sandwiches
Raisins and Nut Sandwiches
Animal Cookies Sponge Cake
Chocolate Ice Cream
Pink Lemonade Milk.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Sandwiches—Cut the bread very thin. Cream the butter well and spread on not too thin. Cut off the crusts, and cut in fancy shapes with cooky cutters if you wish. Run raisins and nuts through the food chopper and moisten with a little salad dressing, syrup or jelly. Figs and dates may be used with nuts to vary the sandwiches. A little fruit juice or jelly may be added to the lemonade to give it the pink shade.

Animal Cookies—For the animal cookies use a good sugar cooky recipe. Two or three eggs, two cups brown sugar, one cup butter, two-thirds cup milk, three teaspoons baking powder. Cream butter and sugar, add eggs, then add milk, flavor with lemon, stir in flour enough to make a soft dough, roll thin, cut into shape, sprinkle with granulated sugar and bake in a moderate oven.

SUGGESTIONS.

Games For Children's Party.

An animal or peanut hunt is a good method to start your party and this is lots of fun out-of-doors. Pinning the tail on the donkey is old, but lots of fun, and an elephant in need of a trunk may be substituted for the donkey. Simple puzzles of various kinds give the children a chance to cool off if the day is warm and they have been having a strenuous game of tag or blindman's buff. Two animal crackers fastened together by a toothpick, two round crackers, or wafers also fastened by toothpicks, with an oblong wafer for the floor of the wagon and candies or nuts the load, are prety favors or decorations for each place at table.

Use For Yolks.

In making angel food or other white cakes the egg yolks are left. There are many ways of using the yolks. For intance, pancakes and waffles are just as good made with the yolks alone. Add a little melted butter to the recipe. Corn gems and but bread are also just as good without the whites. Then there is the old familiar way of using them by making mayonnaise or boiled salad dressing. One housewife declares that whites keep better than yolks so she often uses the yolks alone and saves the whites and when she has a cupful she makes an angel cake.

Appetizing Canape.

Allow one hard boiled eg gto each canape. Halve the eggs and devil the yolks with pepper, salt, a tablespoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, a teaspoonful of catsup, a teaspoonful of French dressing and enough tartar sauce to soften to a smooth paste, not too thin. Fill the eggs, press the halves together, and when chilled slice with a sharp knife and arrange on the toast rounds that have been buttered with a little butter and anchovy paste mixed. Dust the tops with paprika and heap a little mayonnaise in the centers with a stuffed olive on each. The canapes are a complete course in themselves and should have no crackers or rolls served with them.

Hurrying Work On Paving Projects

Setting Curb On South Side streets; Excavating Delaware Avenue

City Engineer Frank Miller today stated that contractors are laying a storm sewer for the city in Lutton street and other employes are setting curb in Phillips street. Curb wil be placed in South Mercer street Monday after which the contractors will provide a sub-grade for actual paving. Olsen Contracting company which won the contract has the steam shovel working in Delaware avenue, vicinity of Moody. After the avenue is graded the steam shovel will be removed to North Mercer street.

Mayor Is Mum On Bathing Suits

Don't Believe They Will Become Problem In New Castle This Year

Probabilities are that Mayor William Dunlap will not lay down hard and fast rules relative to the use of bathing suits here this summer.

In fact, the mayor does not care to discuss bathing girls or bathing suits—probably because the city has had only two consecutive days of bathing weather.

"Will girls be allowed to wear bathing suits while in automobiles passing through the city to the pools," the mayor was asked today.

"Why ask that question," grinned the mayor, adding:

"One of you reporters wrote something about cats and every lady in town believes the city policemen intend to shoot all cats."

"I suppose it will be all right if a bathing girl wraps herself in a light covering?" the reporter asked.

The mayor gazed at the reporter, mounted his police court bench, turned to a prisoner, and asked:

"Why can't you let this stuff alone?" which caused the reporter to believe the query was directed at him, not the prisoner.

The mayor discharged the prisoner after which he travelled into the chief of police's office evidently seeking "protection."

But the fact remains that Mayor Dunlap is not one to yelp and howl about the morals going to smash in this city.

When girls commenced "rolling their own" he didn't say a word. They still "roll 'em" as can be seen when they dance at Cascade Park. The mayor didn't say a single word when the girls came out with boyish-bobs and knickers.

It isn't likely that he will send his 45 policemen after any girl, wearing an uncovered bathing suit, in an auto.

Evidently the mayor believes that a bathing suit is a bathing suit in the city or at the beach.

It is hardly expected however, that any of the girls will be allowed to walk in bathing suits, uncovered, to beaches, however.

Three To Graduate At Bethany On Next Wednesday

(Special To The News)

BETHANY, W. Va., June 11.—The 84th annual commencement of Bethany College will be held Wednesday morning, June 15th. At this time Dr. E. N. Clopper, one of the great sociologists of the country, will deliver the commencement address. His subject will be "The New Spirit of Service." Dr. Clopper is an alumnus of Bethany College.

Dr. Cloyd Goodnight president of the college will confer the degrees in behalf of the faculty and Board of Trustees. No honorary degrees will be conferred this year.

"Tewlfth Night" one of Shakespeare's best comedies will be presented on the campus by the Merry Masquers Dramatic Society Tuesday evening, June 14th. Professor A. R. Bourne, head of the department of English drama, is in charge of the production.

Athletic contests, fraternity banquets, the President's reception, and class day exercises are also scheduled on the Bethany commencement week program.

Harold Phelps, Herman Patton and Miss Helen Cotton, all of New Castle, Pa., are members of the graduating class. Mr. Patton will receive Magna Cum Laude.

New Traffic Lines Are Being Painted On Some Streets

Painters working under the supervision of Thomas Lynch of the city police department have been painting lines on different streets for the expedition of traffic and among the new lines are those in North Jefferson at the intersection of Grant street.

Who white lines have been painted, going north on North Jefferson at Grant street.

The line shows that traffic going north to Wilmington avenue should keep to the extreme right.

The line near the middle of the street calls for a left turn into Grant street.

Lines have also been painted from the Neshannock bridge in East Washington, between Water street and Croton avenue.

Traces Of Emotion Shown By Aviator At Great Tribute

ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER MEMPHIS, June 11.—(By radio to I. N. S.)—As the Memphis crept up the Potomac in the morning mist bearing Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to the Washington navy yard to receive the official greetings of his native land there was a general air of excitement on board.

Col. Lindbergh was early on deck scanning the sky for the fleet of welcoming airplanes which were to escort the Memphis to the Presidental Wharf.

Keenly Interested

Lindbergh had been keenly interested in the evolutions of the airplanes which flew out to greet the Memphis Friday afternoon.

"They are pretty good bombers," remarked the young flyer critically as he watched the plane "Spirit of Jacksonville" maneuvering over the cruiser. The pilot of the plane had dropped a packet of letters signed by the Governor of Florida, the Mayor of Jacksonville and other Florida officials.

The plane succeeded in dropping the letters on the deck of the Memphis after four attempts.

"That is fine to think they would sign all those letters," remarked Lindbergh as the package which had finally landed on the deck was brought to him.

Greatest Tribute

Lindbergh returned to American waters to receive one of the greatest aerial tributes in history.

"This is fine; this is great," were the words that fell from his lips as fifty planes and two blimps circled over the cruiser as she was entering Chesapeake Bay.

The smile that conquered Europe and that soon was to conquer America was on his face.

For a second only was there any hint of emotion and that was when he sighted the first navy planes. He gave a quick gulp and then came a smile that seemed close to tears, but that was all. This mood vanished quickly and during the hour and a half that he stood upon the cruiser's bridge there was no further indication as to how deeply he may have been moved by this unparalleled tribute except by monosyllablic expressions, such as, "great, fine, beautiful."

For the first few minutes after the air demonstration began he was silent. Then he found himself and he became Lindbergh the aviator again.

"That's the plane," suddenly exclaimed Lindbergh as he closely watched the evolutions of a speeding pilot high above the ship.

"That plane," he added thoughtfully," must be speeding 90 miles an hour."

Los Angeles Is Delayed Overnight By Bad Weather

(International News Service)

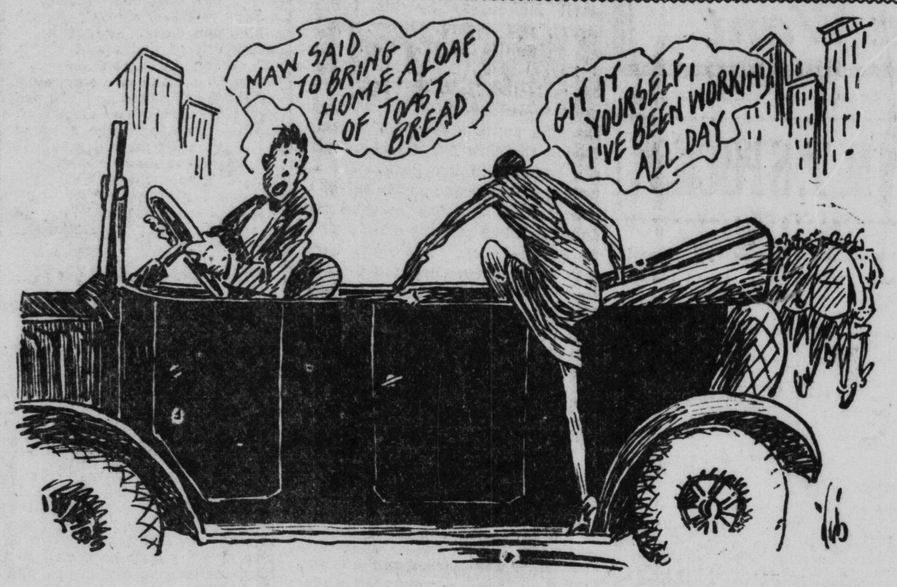

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 1.—After being delayed all night by stormy weather and adverse winds the navy Dirigible Los Angeles departed at 4:25 o'clock this morning (E. S. T.) for Washington to participate in the welcoming ceremonies for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

It was the plan of Commander Charles E. Rosenthal, commander of the Los Angeles, to meet the cruiser Memphis in the Potomac and escort the warship, along with an Armada of airplanes, to the presidential wharf at Washington navy yard where Lindenbergh was to debark.

ABE MARTIN On Miss Sixteen

SHE WOULD STEP ON A CAMEL TOO IF ONE WAS WAITIN'

When th' woman hoverin' around seventy gits t' reviewin' th' past she can't help comparin' th' liberties an' opportunities o' t'day with th' restrictions an' commonplace diversions of her uneventful girlhood. So she sits on her verandy in th' evenin' an' smiles an' quietly congratulates her niece, or granddaughter, as th' painted striplin' hops int' a mouse-colored eight cylinder Juggernaut an' speeds away with some irresponsible pompadoured catterpillar. "Let th' poor child git somethin' out o' life fer she'll be married an' divorced, or forced t' go t' work soon enough," she muses, as she watches th' car swerve an' narrowly avert destruction. Our girls hain't girls long enough. I no longer see th' meekness an' shyness that used t' lurk under th' long lashes o' Miss Sixteen. Th' sweetness, too, has vanished. Th' candy pear flush that once enveloped her face at th' slightest slip o' th' tongue is off th' job. Th' miss o' t'day is amusin' an' interestin', but not girlish. She fills her gran'paw with apprehension, while th' neighbors shake ther heads. Ther's somethin' about th' modern miss that disarms those who would like t' love an' protect her. Instead o' th' ole soft luster in her eyes, they sparkle with a challenge. She's got us buffaloed. In th' home, an' behind th' counter in our department stores an' orangeade booths, her bearin' carries an' independence that makes a feller who would like t' git married an' settle down decide t' wait awhile. In a Ford coupe she seems t' unbend a trifle. Th' girl o' t'day affects th' attitude an' manners o' those grown callous in th' whirl o' pleasure. She adorns herself with th' gaudy accessories o' th' fer eastern nauch dancer, 'cept she don't stain her toenails with henna. But after all's said ther's much t' admire in t'day's girl, her pluck, her effort t' be selfsustainin', an' her aversion t' dishwater an' cannin' t'maters. She hustles out an' goes t' work even tho' economic conditions don't demand it. I love t' see her after th' business worries o' th' day start fer home with her nose in th' air. I like her assurance, th' way she hops a car, or steps in an auto. She'd step on a camel, too, if one wuz waitin'. She don't seem t' care how high she steps. But I miss th' ole indescribable somethin' about a girl in her teens that used t' make me stutter an tremble in her presence, that made me sort o' watch my step an' change my collar occasionally. Father is th' one t' talk t' daughter. Let him fergit his own diversions an' interests fer a spell each day an' try an' locate his daughter, th' little girl who used t' set on his knee an' ask t' see his watch, or his gold teeth, an' tell her somethin' o' th' snares an' pitfalls o' life, tell her that self-respect an' a clear conscience amount t' more'n all th' fur coats an' metal helmets in th' world piled t'gether, an' that the's many a heavy heart beats behind a gin buck.

1926—September 16. Plane ran out of gas in fog; dropped in parachute, dodging gliding plane, to ground near Ottawa, Ill.

1926—September 30. Plane failed 150 feet off ground; saved life by skillful handling in landing.

1926—November 3. Broke record for forced parachute jump when he dropped 13,000 feet through fog over Peoria Ill. after running out of gas.

1927—May 21. Hopped off from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, at 7:52 a. m.

1927—May 22. Landed at Le Bourget Field, Paris, at 5:21 p. m. (New York time.)

1927—May 23. Plunged into a triumphal visit that took him before the kings of Belgium and England, the officials of France and brought civilian Europe to his feet.

1927—June 4. Sails for America on Memphis.

1927—June 11. One of the greatest receptions in history awaits him in Washington; to be followed by ceremonies in New York and St. Louis.

Pitt And Geneva Track Men Qualify In Chicago Tourney

Gibby Welch, Wibecan, Linn, Gwinn And Butler Qualify At Chicago

By JIMMY CORCORAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 11.—Unless those highly tuned track and field athletes of the Big Ten Conference have developed the rickets or corn on the soles of their feet overnight, they should ramble away this afternoon with the bulk of the individual titles in the sixth annual intercollegiate meet which is now in progress at Soldiers' Field here.

Amos Alonzo Stagg and his brother collegians yesterday sifted more than 400 aces and nondescripts down to a good representation of the upper classes and these men will battle it out for the prizes this afternoon.

The Big Ten boys had a merry time in the prelims. They qualified for 21 places in the discus and hammer throws and all the dash events, the pole vault, the mile, two-mile, the high and running broad jumps were moved right in as final events and all the original entrants have a chance to nip off the gold medals from scratch in today's jamboree.

The East, represented largely by the University of Pittsburgh, Geneva College of Beaver Falls, Pa., and New Hampshire, checked in with qualifiers. The Southwest moved in seven men. The Interstate Conference of the Middle West, the Missouri Valley, the Far West and the Rocky Mountain section were held up by scattering qualifiers and ranked in the order named.

Creditors Put Stop To Giant Necktie Mail Order Scheme

Purchased Ties At $1.10 A Dozen And Sold By the Thousand At 3 For $1.00

The swan song of the mail order necktie business of the "Blind Tie Salesman" who only a few months ago flooded this district with his merchandise and charitable appeal, is now being sung in the courts of Missouri. The final chapter in this scheme is tersely told in the following press dispatch taken from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch:

"The flood of neckties that flowed by mail from St. Louis to all sections of the country under the high-pressure direction of Jacob K. Karchmer, promoter of things with a charity appeal, has been stopped.

"The stopper was put on Karchmer by creditors of his $100,000 corporation, the Mississippi Valley Knitting Mills, which has run up debts of $280,000 since beginning business last October. A Creditor's Committee took charge of the firm three weeks ago and liquidation is in progress.

"Karchmer's protege, "Necktie Tyler, the Blind Tie Salesman"—with offices at 1412A Washington avenue, St. Louis, was the medium through which the ties were marketed by the hundreds of thousands. The sales literature, telling about Tyler's blindness, neglected to mention Karchmer, who was expelled from the American Legion in 1924.

"The "necktie scheme" which has been exposed a number of times during the winter has run its course. The bubble was burst. It now appears that Karchmer purchased the ties sent out by the million; they were prchased from Philadelphia and New York mills at $1.10 a dozen. Those receiving the ties were asked to send $1 for three. Many paid for the ties on the charity appeal for the blind man. The manufacturers were not paid for the ties, hence the proceedings on the part of the creditors.

"Auditors are in charge of the business of Karchmer's company. Returned ties are to be sent back to the mills furnishing them, and money received for ties is being distributed to the creditors pro rata. It is reported that some 400,000 receiving ties have neither returned the ties nor paid for them."

Is Your Credit Rating Good Or Bad

Our files contain over 40,000 cards containing ratings on nearly everyone in New Castle and Vicinity.

You Rate Yourself—It All Depends On How You Pay Your Bills

There are three classes:
1. Good Pay.
2. Tolerated Accounts.
3. Dead Beat.

The 1st class can get credit any place and the merchant is glad to serve them.

The 2nd class pay their obligations when they feel like it, they are not dishonest, but they just don't pay as agreed. The merchant tolerates the account, but don't feel any too good about it.

The 3rd class—Well, everybody wants to stay out of this class.
